EXPLAIN TAX REDUCTION METHODS

Officials of Treasury Give Plans for Taxpayers Deducting Quarter

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Treasury officials today explained the method by which taxpayers would calculate their next payments on June 15 if the conference report adopted by Congress is approved by President Coolidge, which now is certain.

Instead of permitting the taxpayer to take a 25 per cent reduction of his 1923 taxes in a lump by omitting the June installment the new plan provides for a scheme which will make a hole in treasury receipts at this time.

The method is as follows: The taxpayer has the option of paying his taxes in full and if he did so on March 15 he will receive a credit of one-fourth. If he pays his taxes in quarterly installments he will be allowed on June 15, but instead he will be permitted to deduct $75 for the payment he made in March and $75 for the credit which he is allowed in June, or a total deduction of $150 in June. When the September 15 payment comes he will deduct only $75 from his $300 bill so that the net payment will be $225. On December 15 he will deduct the remaining $75 so that his bill then would also be $225.

In this way the government permits the taxpayer to take the full one-fourth reduction in four equal parts and the revenues come not seriously disturbed. The whole thing may be reduced to a formula by taking one-half of what was paid in March and subtract-

Committee Gives Paving Report on Glendale Avenue

The report of the committee appointed by property owners on Glendale avenue to investigate the quality of workmanship and material used in the recent paving of that street will be made at a meeting called for tonight at 8 o'clock at the office of the Inglede Realty company, 109 South Glendale avenue.

Mrs. Mabel L. Tigh, chairman of the committee, has gone into the matter thoroughly and her report is eagerly awaited by the property owners affected. All those who own property that has been assessed for this improvement are requested to attend.

Planning Body to Hear Proposal on Widening Colorado

A public hearing on the proposition to widen Colorado from Glendale avenue to the easterly city limits an additional ten feet on each side, making it a 100-foot boulevard will be held by the City Planning commission tonight.

At the present time work is under way which makes Colorado street an 80-foot thoroughfare from San Fernando road to Eagle Rock, with a 66-foot pavement between curbs.

It is reported that some opposition to the proposition has developed, and the matter will be threshed out tonight before the commissioners make any recommendation to the City Council.

NINE KILLED IN WRECK OF FLYER

Many Injured as Passenger Train Collides With Freight on Siding

WILLIAMSPORT, Ind., June 2.—Nine persons were killed and between forty and fifty injured early today when a crack Wabash passenger train crashed into a west-bound freight train on a siding west of here. The dead: E. P. Phillips, bearing credentials of an employee of the Ford Motor company of Detroit; Rabbi P. Goldberger, New York; Mrs. W. H. Pauley, Decatur, Ill.; Mrs. Annie Holloway, Toledo, Ohio.

Walter L. Mitchell, St. Louis, C. Burkhardt, Peru, Ind. Harry Eisenman, St. Louis, Mo. George Korso, St. Louis. An unidentified man.

Injured May Die
The train was a fast passenger, north-bound from St. Louis for Detroit and New York, leaving St. Louis at 6:30 o'clock last night and scheduled to arrive in Detroit at 7:15 o'clock this morning. The passenger coaches were telephoned by the crash into the freight and many of the injured were scalped.

The injured, several of whom may die, were rushed to hospitals in Williamsport and Danville.

W. H. Eckhart, superintendent of the Wabash, issued a statement today placing responsibility for the wreck upon Davis E. Torrence, brakeman of freight train No. 91.

The freight train was ordered on to sidings at Williamsport and because of its length was split and placed on two sidings. The switch at the second siding was unlocked, Superintendent Eckhart said.

Passengers Scalded
Train No. 50, another fast north-bound passenger, passed over the unlocked switch without trouble. When the north-bound Detroit flyer struck it, the engine, baggage car and express car passed over safely. The remaining five coaches—a smoker, chair car and three Pullmans, split the switch and crashed into the freight engine.

The first car, telescoping over the massive engine, tore the steam jacket from the engine, freeing the live steam over the prisoned passengers. Most of the injured were caught in the scalding blasts.

All of the cars remained upright, though telescoped as the heavier pullmans shot forward through the smoker and chair cars. The track was torn up for a distance of 300 feet.

Victim Succumbs to Injuries In Hospital

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—Harry Eisenman, prominent St. Louis manufacturer, who was injured early today in the Wabash wreck at Williamsport, Ind., died in a La Fayette, Ind., hospital later, according to message received by members of his family here.

Eisenman's death brings the death toll of the wreck to ten.

FIGHT OPENS TO CONVICT SLAYERS

State Attorneys to Demand Death Sentences on Two Millionaires' Sons

By LARRY SMITH
For International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Wheels of the mill of justice through which the state's attorney's office expects to grind out death sentences for two millionaires' sons started whirling today.

While the coroner's jury met to determine the manner in which 13-year-old Robert Franks met his death, the state marshalled the array of evidence on which it will ask murder indictments against Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, his confessed slayers.

Held Without Bail
"Killers for a thrill," the youths termed themselves in their own admissions. They confessed that the kidnapping and slaying of the Franks boy were conceived "in a spirit of adventure."

Chief Justice Caverly today ordered Leopold and Loeb taken away from State's Attorney Crowe and the chief of detectives and placed in the custody of the sheriff, who was ordered to take them to the county jail without bail. This order had the effect of imprisoning the confessed slayers by due process of law and of permitting them to be seen by attorneys retained by their families. Further hearings of petitions for writs of habeas corpus were set for Thursday.

Retain Alienists
Anticipating an attempt to plead insanity, State's Attorney Crowe called in four alienists for examination of Leopold and Loeb—Doctors William O. Krohn, Hugh T. Patrick, Archibald Church and Ludwig Hecktoen, the latter of the University of Chicago, where both the accused youths were students.

The legal sanity of the pair can easily be proved, was the statement of Dr. Krohn, after questioning them.

Strong exception was taken to this move by the defense attorneys.

The Evening News Leads In Circulation, Advertising, Features, Local, World News

Never has there been a time in the history of Glendale that the merchants have been so fortunate in having a great business-getting medium in which to advertise their merchandise as at present through the columns of The Evening News.

The paid circulation of The Evening News in Glendale exceeds that of any other daily newspaper by 30 per cent. The street sales, which are conducted entirely on the merits of the paper, are enormous.

The month of May just closed showed a lead of 6000 inches of advertising over any other daily newspaper published in Glendale. This lead for May is not unusual, for our records show that there has never been a month in the history of The Evening News that it has not been conspicuously in the lead with both display and classified advertising.

The make-up and the contents of The Evening News have been attracting favorable attention of good judges of daily newspapers all over the country.

EXTRA Measure Provides Sweeping Revision Of Revenue Laws

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Coolidge today signed the 1924 tax reduction bill, providing for sweeping revision of the federal revenue laws and an immediate 25 per cent reduction in income taxes.

The Mellon tax plan, having been rejected by Congress, was not represented in the bill which became law by the president's signature, but it carried the Simons-Longworth income tax schedules—the compromise effected as a result of the refusal of the Democrats and Republican insurgents to accept the administration rates.

The president will issue a statement for morning newspapers in which he will set forth his detailed opinion of the measure as compared with the Mellon plan which he advocated, it was learned.

DIRECTORS VISIT TELEPHONE PLANT

C. C. Men and Realty Board Committee Are Guests Of Fred Deal

Members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the industrial committee of the realty board were conducted through the local telephone office by Fred Deal, manager, at 11:30 o'clock this morning and were afterwards entertained at dinner at the Harriet Mae tea room. The inspection was the fourth of a series of weekly trips arranged by the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of viewing various Glendale industrial plants.

The Pacific Telephone & Telegraph building on South Brand was examined from basement to roof, and the operation of all equipment was explained in detail by Mr. Deal and one of the test-board men. The manner in which the company has provided for emergencies such as the failure of the electric light plant proved especially interesting to the visitors.

Starting in the basement, the party was shown the eleven cables entering the building, each

La Follette Plans to Hold Up Adjournment

WASHINGTON, June 2.—While Senator Robert M. La Follette, the insurgent leader, was making plans at one end of the capitol to block the scheduled adjournment of Congress this week, the House of Representatives voted this afternoon to wind up the session at 7 p. m. next Saturday, June 7.

On the trip east a heavy snowstorm was encountered just west of Cheyenne, and Mr. Hewitt describes the weather in Illinois as being cold and disagreeable. The mid-western states have had a late spring, and there was no indication of summer being almost at hand while he was in Chicago.

Mr. Hewitt said: "He declares that the crops throughout Illinois and Iowa are in fine shape, as there has been a great deal of rain during the spring, and conditions are favorable for a bumper crop if the weather remains favorable for the rest of the summer."

Lauds Relations of American Republics

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Greeting a group of highway engineers from the Latin-American republics, now in this country to study road-making methods, President Coolidge declared today that "at no time in our history have the formal relations between the governments of the American republics been on a higher plane than they are today."

NO CASES REPORTED

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—No new cases of foot and mouth disease were reported in California over the week-end, officials of the state department of agriculture announced here today.

PROBE CAUSE OF SCHOOL TRAGEDY

Start Four Investigations To Fix Blame for Fire Taking 22 Lives

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—Four separate and searching investigations were under way here today to determine the cause of the mysterious fire which Saturday night destroyed the three-story wooden structure housing the Hope Development school for sub-normal girls at Playa del Rey, claiming twenty-two lives.

Already the investigators have learned that the building was a fire trap, that the children were sleeping behind locked doors and windows and that rescuers were forced to break into the home as they frantically sought keys to the rooms held by the sleeping matron.

Strapped to Bed
One of the burned children, investigators learned today, had been strapped in her bed. The child had a habit of falling out of her cot, so matrons nightly bound her with a heavy strap.

The state board of charities and reforms, it was disclosed today, refused to issue a permit for the operation of the school, owing to the condition of the building, which was without fire escapes or exits of any kind.

Locked Up Nightly
Mrs. Anna Rodemaker, school matron, told the investigators most of the cases cared for at the school have been under psychopathic observation and it was necessary to lock them in their rooms at night.

The grand jury, the district attorney, the coroner and the sheriff each launched probes of the holocaust, the most terrible in the history of Southern California, and in addition members of the state board of charities and reforms may conduct an investigation.

Pitiful scenes were those marking preparations today for funeral

GRADE DIVISION LUNCHEON TOPIC

Plans to Separate Railway Tracks and Los Feliz Road Discussed

Members of the City Council, City Planning commission and representatives of various organizations in the city attended a luncheon held at noon today at the offices of the Automobile Club of Southern California on Figueroa street, Los Angeles, to participate in a discussion on the proposed separation of grades where the Southern Pacific tracks cross Los Feliz road. V. B. Stone, city manager and W. H. Reeves, city manager, and a member of the Los Angeles County grade-crossing committee, were also present.

New Bridge Planned
In a survey recently made by a committee appointed by the county authorities, this crossing was placed number one on a list of improvements to be undertaken. As the bonds for the construction of a new bridge across the Los Angeles river on Los Feliz road were voted by a big majority May 6, it is hoped that these two projects might be carried on simultaneously.

Plans for the sub-grade crossing are yet in the embryo stage, and today's meeting was merely a get-together affair for all county, city and organization officials who are interested in the project.

La Crescenta to Have $30,000 Sanitarium

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—Organized with a capital stock of $30,000, the La Crescenta Sanitarium, Inc., of La Crescenta, today filed articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk.

Directors are Robert A. Fischer of South Pasadena, Alie W. Anderson and F. Annetta Siple of La Crescenta.

Schools Closed by Authorities; Girls' Home Next on List

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—Always it happens—every disaster reveals—that action by authorities just misses the mark. That was true in the instance of the fire which destroyed the Hope Development school home for sub-normal girls.

Only last week the Manhattan Inn school, a few miles farther down the beach from Playa del Rey, was closed by orders of the state and county officers because it was considered a fire trap. The Ocean View school at Manhattan also was ordered to provide additional outside fire escapes.

Additions to the True Love Rescue home, conducted by the Salvation Army, had been ordered built of fireproof material instead of stucco, but—

The Hope Development home was seeking new quarters, the lease on the old resort hotel having expired Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Jacobs had gone to Pasadena to see the owner, it is said, to get an extension of time, when the conflagration wiped out the institution and carried with it more than a score of lives.

SCORES DEAD IN ALBANIAN REVOLT

Report Battle Waged Near Tirana by Rebels and Government Troops

ROME, June 2.—Twenty-eight Albanian rebels and thirty-two government soldiers were killed in an hour's battle near Tirana, it was reported from the Albanian capital this afternoon.

An Italian warship has been sent into Albanian waters to protect Italian lives and property.

March on Capital
LONDON, June 2.—Revolution has broken out in Albania and strong detachments of rebels are marching upon Tirana, the capital, according to a Brindisi despatch to the Daily Mail today.

ROME, June 2.—A suggestion by the American minister that the Albanian revolutionary dispute be referred to the League of Nations was declined today.

The foregoing cablegram evidently refers to the American minister in Albania.

Liberalize Laws for Care of Veterans

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The House today passed a bill liberalizing the existing laws for the care of disabled World war veterans and increasing compensation to dependents. Veterans will be treated under the new law without first securing proof of service or the origin of their trouble. The law will cost the government $36,000,000 more annually than the present regulations.

SUGGESTS LONG BEACH BREAKWATER

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The long waited report of the United States board of army engineers upon the Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor project was received by Speaker Gillett this afternoon. It was transmitted by Lansing Beach, chief of engineers, who recommends the construction of a breakwater on the inner lines at a cost of $14,000,000 on a basis of fifty-fifty between the government and local interests of Los Angeles and Long Beach, which would mean an expenditure of $7,000,000 each.

DENIES ANY INTENTION TO INSULT NATION

Coolidge and Hughes In Study Over Reply on Exclusion Topic

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The reply of the United States government to the Japanese exclusion protest will not be long delayed.

Secretary of State Hughes studied the Japanese note, handed to him Saturday by Ambassador Hanihara, over the week-end, and had about made up his mind today as to his reply.

President Coolidge likewise had a copy of the note with him on his Sunday aboard the Mayflower, and he will confer with Hughes this week in comparing his views with those of the secretary.

Denial of Insult
The disavowing of any intent upon the part of the United States to insult the Japanese nation by the enactment of the exclusion provision will be one of the chief features of the Hughes note, although a delicate question has been made by the Japanese ambassador insisting that there is no ground for the assertions that Japanese are not assimilable in this country.

Japan's objection to the exclusion law on the ground that it constitutes a technical violation of the commercial treaty of 1911 will be met with a statement from this government that in this particular treaty it is stated specifically that the pact is not concerned with the question of immigration. The legal question raised on this point by the Japanese is expected to be threshed out, however, in future correspondence.

President to Issue Statement on Tax Bill
WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Coolidge today put the finishing touches on a statement which he will issue in connection with the announcement of his verdict on the tax reduction bill.

That the president will sign the bill was confidently expected at the capitol, where tentative arrangements have been made for promptly passing it over his veto in the event he should withhold his approval.

The president's statement will point out the good and bad points of the legislation from the viewpoint of the administration.

An elaborate report on the legislation was turned over to Mr. Coolidge by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

CLUB WOMEN OF CALIFORNIA IN STATE CONCLAVE

Session Held In Pasadena As Forerunner to Big L. A. Convention

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
 Of The Evening News Staff.
 Much was accomplished at the twenty-third annual convention of the California Federation of Women's clubs, that was in session for thirty-six hours Friday night and Saturday in Pasadena. While shortened because of the coming biennial of the General Federation this week in Los Angeles, the state convclave was attended by almost 1000 delegates with credentials and is declared to have been the largest in the history of the California federation. Saturday morning at the convention was devoted to annual reports, while in the afternoon resolutions were considered. Mrs. Aaron Schloss of Berkeley was elected California director for the General Federation, to succeed Mrs. Robert J. Burdette; and later a symposium was held on "World Citizenship as Developed Through the Departments," with Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, president of the Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs, among the speakers. In the afternoon resolutions read by Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, chairman of the resolutions committee, one noted many resolutions given endorsement at the recent convention of the Los Angeles District in Glendale.

War On Bill Boards
 Of the eighteen resolutions, which were discussed and passed upon singly, all but one were adopted. The one giving rise to the most interesting and live discussion was introduced by the Los Angeles Ebell club, recommending a campaign for the removal of all bill boards from the highways and commending the Standard Oil company for removing theirs about four months ago. Bill boards are not artistic, the resolution declared. Decided opinions were offered from various club leaders. Although declared inartistic the billboards proved an inspiring subject for a flow of eloquence both pro and con. The resolution was lost by only a few votes. Unanimous approval was given to a resolution, slightly amended, for a campaign for international peace. In substance it read: "The California Federation is in sympathy with all movements

Why I Am In Glendale

The lure of sunshine, of mountain, of sea,
 Has always cast its spell o'er me.
 Born in Ohio, that beautiful state,
 With its hills, and its rivers, and countryside great,
 Had fostered and kindled this desire of me,
 To live a little closer to mountain and sea.

But to give up home—family—all,
 Was a problem grave, that did not enthrall,
 Until at last, ill health, with its fears,
 Settled the longing of all these years.

Away to "God's Country" at last we go!
 Away from the scenes of ice and snow!
 To find health and happiness and wholesome ease,
 Amid the sunshine, the flowers, and Glendale's trees.

Here peace and contentment and good health, I pray,
 May be God's blessing on all who stay,
 To finish the journey, in the sunset of life,
 Away from the hustle and bustle and strife.
 Here, in the restful majesty of mountains and hills,
 Amid the charm and blossom of Glendale's foothills,
 Glendale—the pride of all who roam!
 Glendale—"the Garden Spot"—my home!

J. N. Olmstead, 88-year-old member of The Glendale Evening News Sunset club, was unable to attend the birthday party last Thursday for A. H. Cleveland. Instead he sat down and penned a note to The Glendale Evening News telling some of the interesting experiences of his life. He writes:

ARTIST RELATES VALUE OF COLOR IN ALL CANVASES

C. McDonald Wright Speaks Before Association on Present-Day Art

C. McDonald Wright, head of the Art Students' League of Los Angeles and acclaimed one of the best authorities on "color," was guest of honor and speaker at the meeting of the Glendale Art association Sunday afternoon in the juvenile room of the public library.

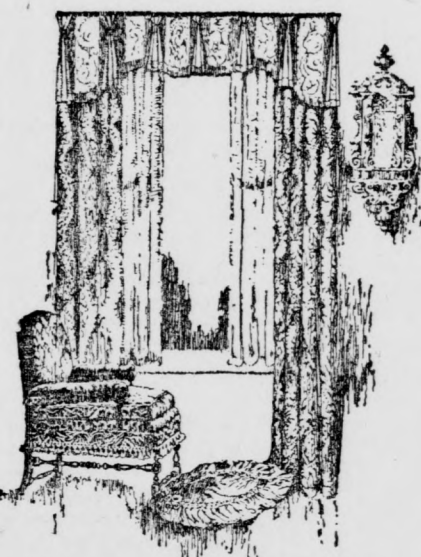

"All improvements in painting from the earliest times down to the present have been made through color," he said at the beginning of his address on the subject, "Color Harmony." He spoke of the discovery of the use of color from a scientific sense, and "broken color," which brought about the foundation of the impressionistic school, but stated that the impressionist is not scientific.

"Large numbers of artists of America and France are working out the profound problems of color," he said. "Painting as conceived by the old masters is not painting as done by artists of today. The world of painters is coming back to realization that composition must be the bottom of all art. Color must be given in masses to have any effect at all, and that they must reproduce vitality."

Studied in France
 "Modern movement in France is bankrupt. The artists have gone back to scientific painting and harmonic color. There are more pictures by modernists being sold in Los Angeles today than

INCREASE IN NATION'S WEALTH

American wealth increased from $186,299,664,000 at the close of 1912 to $320,803,862,000 at the close of 1922, according to a federal census conducted by the United States department of commerce, an increase of 72.2 per cent for the decade.

Several of the items covered by the census have informative value. Taxed realty and improvements were estimated as worth $155,908,625,000 in 1922, an increase of 60.9 per cent over their value in 1912. Clothing, furniture, goods and vehicles (except motor vehicles) were valued at $75,983,607,000, an increase of 121.3 per cent. Railways and their equipment were rated at $19,950,800,000, an increase of 23.5 per cent. Manufacturing machinery, implements and tools were valued at $15,753,260,000, an increase of 159.1 per cent. Telephone and transmission business (except railroads), privately owned, receive a valuation of $13,607,570,000, an increase of 42.1 per cent. Motor vehicles were calculated to be worth $4,567,407,000, but the percentage of increase cannot be stated, no estimate of their value apart from other property having been made in 1912.

The increase in individual wealth during the decade of 1912-22 was 50 per cent, this ratio being affected by the increase of population. Its amount is figured at $2918 in 1922, whereas in 1912 it was $1950. It should not be inferred that the individual became $968 richer, for the rise in the valuation of the principal forms of wealth is owing in part to the higher prices of 1922. During the decade prices increased about 50 per cent. The dollar in 1922, accordingly, had less purchasing power than in 1912. These facts and others of like character demonstrate that the country's real wealth in 1922 was much less than its seeming wealth.

Calculations of national wealth encounter many difficulties. The valuation of motor vehicles, for example, at $4,567,407,000, while that of coin and bullion in gold and silver is put at $4,278,155,000, would be questioned by many qualified students of such things. Figures never perform more deceptively than when measurements of money are considered, for its value, its purchasing power in relation to commodities, can change greatly in a few years. Recent statistics from the national Department of Labor indicate that the increase of wealth reported by the Department of Commerce mainly is a dollar or numerical increase. It is owing to the dollar's reduced value or purchasing power. If 62 per cent of the seeming increase be owing to these changes in prices or purchasing power, the real increase in national wealth during the decade was less than twenty billions; that is, between 10 and 11 per cent only. As to the individual and his wealth, instead of being as rich in 1922 as in 1912, he really was less rich, for the seeming increase of individual wealth is offset by the rise of prices and the reduction of his dollar's value. These factors are also accompanied by a great increase of taxation, which further diminishes the individual's ability to save. America and the Americans by no means are as rich actually as the census bureau makes them seem to be.

CLEAN JOURNALISM PAYS

The day of the muck-raking newspaper has passed, though there are some papers that refuse to hear the death knell of the old order. There is no better example in American journalism of the truth of that old adage, "Honesty is the best policy," than The New York Times of Adolph Ochs.

This paper has recently increased its stock from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, giving its stockholders a stock dividend of 100 per cent. It is free from debt of any kind whatever. Its stock is rated as worth $10,000,000, but the true value of the paper is closer to three times that valuation. It earns more than $1,500,000 a year. It is the strongest and greatest medium of advertising that New York has. Among advertisers it has become a saying: "As well be out of business as be out of The Times." It is recognized by sincere and self-respecting journalists everywhere as the world's greatest newspaper.

How has this record of journalistic and business success been achieved? By having and maintaining high ideals and standards of ethics as well as economics and journalism.

When Adolph Ochs took The Times in the middle '90s of the last century, it was moribund. Its circulation was less than 25,000, and half of this was unpaid circulation. Yellow journalism was showing its teeth. Nothing was too violent or lurid for the "yellows." But there remained a remnant among the newspaper readers of New York that abhorred that type of journalism. Good citizens were willing to stand by a good paper that stood for good standards. The case-hardened veterans of newspaper row laughed when Mr. Ochs announced that he intended to conform to high ideals, but he held his course undismayed and unflinching. Open attacks and unscrupulous, secret opposition were encountered, but these really helped The Times, and it constantly forged ahead. Every blow aimed at it glanced off. It indulged neither in hysterics nor in yelps and propaganda. It conducted itself according to the code of decency and presented the real news. It filled an actually great demand from the public for an upright paper that also is a live paper.

The growth of The Times, year after year, with never a setback, building itself up by its earnings, constitutes evidence that respectability—respect for the public and regard for principle—lays the cornerstone and foundation of a newspaper's prosperity.

TOO MANY FATAL ACCIDENTS

Automobile accidents during 1923 claimed 16,000 fatalities—just 16,000 too many. There were also approximately 500,000 non-fatal accidents. These figures are accurate. They are furnished by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company and the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety underwriters, people whose business it is to know.

A total of 16,000 deaths a year in the United States, from automobile accidents alone, is at the rate of forty-four fatal accidents a day. The figures tell a story of eternal warfare in the land, by day and night, month in, month out, with every lane and boulevard enfiladed and every crossroads an outpost of the enemy.

There is no peace and there can be no peace, while hundreds of thousands of unqualified drivers are allowed to pilot motor cars. Carrying concealed weapons is against the law in practically every state—but the automobile is a weapon brandished openly.

Uniform automobile laws must be passed in every state, as they have been passed in New York, New Jersey and certain eastern states, making it utterly impossible for incompetent drivers to pilot cars.

THE LAST DAYS BEFORE SCHOOL VACATION ARE THE HARDEST!

Charles Francis Murphy

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Charles Francis Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, died recently from acute indigestion. He was 66 years old and for 22 years he dominated the most famous political machine in American history. Mr. Murphy, like all great men, seemed to be greater than his job.

He didn't invent Tammany Hall, nor partisan politics, but found them when he arrived on the scene.

He was a successor to Croker and Tweed. He seems to have been a man of great personal attainments and qualities. Those who knew him best are ardent in his praise.

He was a strong man and typical of American life. He began as a street car driver and saloon-keeper. He grew up to be a maker of mayors and governors. He was a strong man but death was stronger and when it touched him on the shoulder he had to go like the rest of us.

It was his invariable habit to telephone Tammany Hall about 9 o'clock every morning and arrange engagements and to ascertain what conferences were in progress. Before that hour on April 26 one stronger than he had telephoned him and he had answered the call.

The suddenness of his death surprised even his own physician, which shows that the human body is a mystery that no one yet understands.

The rise of Murphy was peculiarly American. He began in lowly surroundings, but by his own efforts, rose to great position. He was an Irishman and a Catholic.

He did not accumulate great wealth but was great in his personality and his friendships. He had planned to make Governor Smith become the occupant of the White House and then take a trip to Europe, since he did not propose to have it said that he was interfering with Smith, once he became chief executive of the nation.

At the moment of his death he was in complete charge of the governmental machinery of New York. Men whom he had helped to nominate held every state executive office.

It is significant that all who knew him well give evidence as to the softness of his speech and the firmness of his promise. He was the kind of man of whom it is said that his word was as good as his bond. That is, he had shrewdness and vision enough to see that the only way toward permanent and abiding success in politics, and in every other business, is in strict honesty and dependability.

While repudiating utterly the whole fabric of Mr. Murphy's system, at the same time both his friends and his enemies will bear witness to his excellent personal characteristics.

MUST REFORM ITSELF

(From San Francisco Journal)

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States held an annual convention a few days ago. Herbert Hoover, secretary of Commerce, addressed the meeting. He alluded to the suggestive fact that the chamber's committee on business ethics had recommended certain principles of business behavior. Then he discussed the broader aspects of the subject and the relation of government to business.

Business desires less of government in business and less of regulation by government. Mr. Hoover assured it that this emancipation can be achieved by business applying to itself sound standards of ethics, accepting high ideals for conduct and organizing associations that can set up and enforce these ideals and standards. In this allusion to organization and association he opened a new vein of thought.

Our people for the first time devise a method for business to decide voluntarily upon the square deal and to give it practical power. The new era in the organization of industry and commerce is charged, if we develop it judiciously, with great capacities to drive ethical progress ahead. The economic existence and its activities are altering their form of organization. Business is passing from individualist organization and ways of work to co-operation and association. If our shoe shiners, who have hitherto run their stands each on his own associate and form a co-operative organization, they do what Secretary Hoover has in mind.

Multitudinous regulations or rules enacted by government have been needed to conserve human rights in business during the individualist era. But legislation is a clumsy tool for outlawing the evils in industry and commerce, and too often introduces other evils. When business abuses are eradicated by the conscience of the individual, by his taking the initiative himself in setting up standards for the voluntary use of business, by his moral sense

ROOM ENOUGH AT TOP

(From Santa Barbara News)

Supplementing the statements made by the Harvard School of Business Training, that there is plenty of room for college men in the higher places of business, James Simpson, president of Marshall & Field company, has written an article in Yale News which ought to be full of encouragement to the believers in university training.

Business needs new blood, says this leader in the business world and it wants men with well trained minds. This matter of one of the greatest retail establishments in the world sets the stamp of disapproval on the often repeated statement that college men are not wanted in business. He says: "Mercantile institutions esteem college men, for big business has its eye open for intelligence and latent ability. In such institutions good positions are not hard to find—they are hard to fill."

He also says: "I can think, off-hand, of more than a dozen positions in our company that are waiting for good men to fill. There are plenty of men for ordinary jobs, but men who can qualify for the higher positions are, if not rare, none too plentiful."

But the sheepskin will not land the young man in these choice jobs. University training, plus brains, determination, grit, courage, fidelity and hard work will open the gate to golden opportunity.

"We welcome college men in our organization," says Mr. Simpson, "but they have to earn their promotions by their accomplishments and not by the possession of their sheepskins."

It is the old story in new words. "By their fruits ye shall know them." The man worth-

Character Sketches

An optimist may become a bore but a confirmed pessimist is a calamity. I know whereof I speak for I lived beside Mrs. John Applegate in Anytown for a good many years. There was no possible excuse for Mrs. Applegate's pessimism. She had a good husband who was doing well in the dry goods business and a family of fine children; everything should have looked rosy to her.

Even the sight of our neighbor was depressing. The corners of her mouth turned down, made her long face seem still longer, her eyes were sad and her expression mournful. She had worn herself thin by constant worry. Mrs. Applegate was a good wife and mother in every other way, but she must have made life miserable for her family. Can you think what it would be like to live with a human bag of gloom?

When her husband's business was good she knew hard times were coming. When hard times came she knew things would be worse. When her children were well she knew they were going to contract some disease or meet with some accident. When, occasionally there was illness in her family she fairly reveled in gloom. She delighted to read in the newspapers of strange and disastrous happenings, especially of unusual accidents that had proved fatal. She never forgot any of these stories and I used to think her mind was little more than a card index of direful happenings of which she had read and heard and to which she could refer at a moment's notice.

When my wife and I decided to move to Glendale Mrs. Applegate grew almost frantic in warning us of the appalling consequences of such a move. In the first place, the birds do not sing and the flowers have no fragrance in California. My wife wrote her that when we were kept awake night after night by the song of the mocking bird outside our window and by the combined heavy odors of orange blossoms, honeysuckle and jasmine, we almost wished she had been right. Then the climate of California is unhealthy, there is intense heat all summer and it rains constantly all winter. The breeze from the ocean brings on all kinds of diseases. There are no business opportunities in California and she predicted we would soon be broke and back in Anytown. However, all this didn't matter very much, for we were likely to be killed in a railroad accident before we reached California.

My wife and I were glad to get away from Mrs. Applegate. While we didn't share her pessimism in the least, yet she always surrounded herself with an air of suspense and dread of something awful that could not but influence those around her. We take great delight in writing her that all of her predictions about California proved untrue, but she refers to the card index in her brain and comes back at us with prophecies that warn us of impending death or at least the loss of our happiness and fortune. Mrs. Applegate should be confined in an institution.

A TURKISH LEGEND

A certain Pasha, dead five thousand years,
Once from his harem fled in sudden tears,

And had this sentence on the city's gate,
Deeply engraven, "Only God is great."

So these four words above the city's noise
Hung like the accents of an angel's voice.

And evermore, from the high baraban,
Saluted each returning caravan.

Lost in that city's glory. Every gust
Lifts, with dead leaves, the unknown Pasha's dust.

And all is ruin—save one wrinkled gate.
Whereon is written, "Only God is great."

THE CASE OF JENNIE BRICE

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Copyright, 1924, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The story so far:

Mrs. Pitman, who tells the story, ran away from home to marry, and was never reconciled to her old Pittsburgh family, although she returned to her home town to live after she became a widow. She kept boarders in what was the lower Allegheny, where, because there were floods every year, rents were cheap. One March there was an unusually high flood. Miss Jennie Brice, as she was known on the stage, was having an unusually quarrelsome time with her husband, Mr. Ladley. Mrs. Pitman overheard them talking with a man, and Miss Brice said, "That's all very well, but what about that prying she devil that runs the house?" That night the water rose high, and in the middle of the night another boarder, Mr. Reynolds, woke Mrs. Pitman to say somebody had just rowed away in the boat she had tied to the stairs in the lower hall. Mrs. Pitman later saw Mr. Ladley returning. He said he had been out for medicine for his wife. Peter, the dog, finds a slipper of Mrs. Ladley's floating in the parlor, and later a big knife of Mrs. Pitman's, with the blade broken. Mr. Ladley offers to pay Mrs. Pitman for a pillow slip he says was burned with a cigarette, and says his wife really was not ill, but went away in the night. A benevolent old gentleman, rowing around to feed stranded animals, stops at Mrs. Pitman's, and offers to help her. His name is Holcombe.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

VII—THE ONYX CLOCK

"I have a friend coming pretty soon, Mrs. Pitman," he said, "a young newspaper man, named Howell. He's a nice boy, and if there is anything to this, I'd like him to have it for his paper. He and I have been having some arguments about circumstantial evidence, too, and I know he'd like to work on this."

I gave him a pair of Mr. Pitman's socks, for his own were saturated, and while he was changing them the telephone rang. It was the theatre again, asking for Jennie Brice.

"You are certain she is out of the city?" some one asked, the same voice as in the morning. "Her husband says so."

"Ask him to come to the phone."

"He is not here."

"When do you expect him back?"

"I'm not sure he is coming back."

"Look here," said the voice angrily, "can't you give me any satisfaction Or don't you care to?"

"I've told you all I know."

"You don't know where she is?"

"No, sir."

"She didn't say she was coming back to rehearse for next week's piece?"

"Her husband said she went away for a few days' rest. He went away about noon and hasn't come back. That's all I know, except that they owe me three weeks' rent that I'd like to get hold of."

The owner of the voice hung up the receiver with a snap, and left me pondering. It seemed to me that Mr. Ladley had been very reckless. Did he expect any one to believe that Jennie Brice had gone for a vacation without notifying the theatre? Especially when she was to rehearse that week?

I thought it curious, to say the least, that he put down in his note-book, and together we went to the Ladleys' room.

The room was in better order than usual, as I have said. The bed was made—which was out of the ordinary, for Jennie Brice never made her bed—but made the way a man makes one, with the blankets wrinkled and crooked beneath, and the white counterpane pulled smoothly over the top, showing every hump beneath.

I showed Mr. Holcombe the splashed, dried with ink as usual. "I'll take it off and soak it in milk," I said. "It's his fountain pen; when the ink doesn't run he shakes it, and—"

"Where's the clock?" said Mr. Holcombe, stopping in front of the mantel with his notebook in his hand.

"The clock?"

I turned and looked. My onyx clock was gone from the mantel shelf.

Perhaps it seems strange, but from the moment I missed that clock my rage at Mr. Ladley increased to a fury. It was all I had left of my former gentility. When times were hard and I got behind with the rent, as happened now and then, more than once I'd been tempted to sell the clock, or to pawn it. But I had never done it. Its ticking had kept me company on many a lonely night, and its elegance had helped me keep my pride and to retain the respect of my neighbors. For in the flood district onyx clocks are not plentiful. Mrs. Bryan, the saloonkeeper's wife, had one, and I had another. That is, I had had.

I stood staring at the mark in the dust of the mantel shelf, which Mr. Holcombe was measuring with a pocket tape measure.

"You are sure you didn't take it away yourself, Mrs. Pitman?" he asked.

"Sure? Why, I could hardly lift it," I said.

He was looking carefully at the oblong of dust where the clock had stood. "The key is gone, too," he said, busily making entries in his note-book. "What was the maker's name?"

"Why, I don't think I ever noticed."

He turned to me angrily. "Why didn't you notice?" he snapped.

"Good God, woman, do you only use your eyes to cry with? How you can wind a clock, time after time, and not know the maker's name? It proves my contention; the average witness is totally unreliable."

"Not at all," I snapped, "I am ordinarily both accurate and observing."

"Indeed!" he said, putting his note paper back behind him. "Then perhaps you can tell me the color of the pencil I have been writing with."

"Certainly, Red." Most pencils are red, and I thought this was safe.

But he held his right hand out with a flourish. "I've been writing with a fountain pen," he said in deep disgust, and turned his back on me.

But the next moment he had run to the wash-stand and pulled it out from the wall. Behind it, where it had fallen, lay a towel, covered with stains, as if some one had wiped bloody hands on it. He held it up, his face working with excitement. I could only cover my eyes.

"This looks better," he said, and began making a quick search of the room, running from one piece of furniture to another, pulling out bureau drawers, drawing the bed out from the wall, and crawling along the baseboard with a lighted match in his hand. He gave a shout of triumph finally, and reappeared from behind the bed with the broken end of my knife in his hand.

"Very clumsy," he said. "Very clumsy. Peter the dog could have done better."

I had been examining the wall-paper about the washstand. Among the ink spots were one or two reddish ones that made me shiver. And seeing a scrap of note paper stuck between the baseboard and the wall, I dug it out with a hairpin, and threw it into the grate, to be burned later. It was by the merest chance there was no fire there. The next moment Mr. Holcombe was on his knees by the fireplace reaching for the scrap.

"Never do that, under such circumstances," he snapped, fishing among the ashes. "You might throw away valuable—Hello, Howell!"

Many industries are being attracted to Southern California by the unlimited possibilities here, he said. Capitalists find raw material can be secured for many of their articles nearby and shipping facilities are better than in Eastern and Central states, the speaker said.

High Court Rules In Favor of Gas Company

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The United States supreme court decided today in favor of the Gas and Electric company of San Francisco, in its suit against the San Francisco ordinances of 1914, 1915 and 1916, fixing the charge for gas in the city at 75 cents a thousand cubic feet. Lower courts held the ordinances valid and ordered re-payment by the company of overcharges amounting to about $2,000,000. The company contended the 75 cent rate was confiscatory and the ordinance illegal. The case was remanded by supreme court of the United States to review as to proper rates based on valuation of the property.

Uphold Commissioner In Prescription Ban

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The right of the commissioner of internal revenue to limit the number of liquor prescriptions issued by physicians was partially upheld today by the United States supreme court.

The case was brought by Waldemar Guerick, a druggist, on behalf of several California druggists.

Visit Terminal Room

After inspecting the switch boards and other equipment in the basement, the men were conducted to the second floor, where are all wiring terminals in what is called the terminal room. The relay system by which calls are carried from one line to another and the mechanical process gone through when the receiver is lifted to call the operator, were completely explained and illustrated there.

The ringing machine by which the operators can automatically ring any phone after it has been plugged in, was described and the duplicate machine used when the city power fails was also shown. The trouble board, where delicate instruments are used to locate breaks in the cables and other wire troubles, was located on the second floor.

When the apparatus for "boosting" the transmission was explained, W. E. Hewitt, president of the Chamber of Commerce demanded an explanation of what was used to "boost" the prices but his curiosity remained unsatisfied.

Look Over Switchboard

On the third floor the two main switchboards were examined and the operators were seen at their work. Many questions were answered by Mr. Deal in regard to the methods used in connecting incoming and outgoing calls. The pay station and trouble boards were also explained in detail.

Mr. Deal told the directors that over 35,000 originating calls were handled at the office in a single day. Besides this huge total, there are 6500 incoming calls from points outside of the city. During the busy hours, as many as 300 calls are handled in an hour. There are sixty operators at the boards during a twenty-four-hour day, according to Mr. Deal. The company employs a total of 150 people in Glendale, he said.

The blackened bodies were burned beyond recognition and relatives were not permitted to examine the remains as officials claimed identification to be impossible.

Bodies of all the known victims have been recovered and eighteen rescued girls are undergoing treatment for severe burns in hospitals. Several volunteer firemen, whose identity is unknown, were reported unaccounted for and the ashes of the school building were being sifted today in an effort to determine if they had lost their lives in the flaming building while attempting to rescue the trapped girls.

Water Freight Rates Cheaper In Missouri

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 2.—Merchants from North Dakota to Florida and Maine to Texas saved $2,123,770 in freight rates on goods shipped by the Federal Barge Line in the thirty months prior to December 30, 1923, according to the April statement of the Mississippi Valley Association, just made public.

The average saving per ton, as compared to railroad freight rates, is estimated at $1.40. More than half the tonnage of the old barge line comes by rail from shippers not on the river, and the freight saving of 20 per cent applies to this traffic as well as to goods shipped entirely on the river.

More than 500 treaties have been filed with the League of Nations.

IMPROVEMENT OF HIGHWAYS URGED

Many Projects Advocated by Foothill Residents in Boulevard Plans

TUJUNGA, June 2.—The outstanding road improvement projects being urged by Verdugo hills organizations are the extension of Honolulu avenue, from La Crescenta through Verdugo City, the Begue ranch in Tujunga and connecting with Manzanita drive, continuing on to Sunland along the foot of the hills south of Tujunga; the paving of Roscoe road from Sunland to the San Fernando highway, and the improvement of Monte Vista boulevard in Tujunga for the purpose of connecting with the proposed new road into Big Tujunga canyon.

The Honolulu avenue-Manzanita drive boulevard would run close to the hills south of town, passing the John Steven McGroarty home and the foot of the peak on which stands the Cross of San Ysidro on Mt. McGroarty. Honolulu avenue was the first county road connecting Sunland with Los Angeles in the early days when there was no town of Tujunga. Since the construction of paving on Michigan avenue, the older route has been more or less neglected, but Supervisor Wright of the county highway commission has said that Honolulu avenue will undoubtedly receive attention in the near future.

Finance Is Bar

The paving of Roscoe road is being urged by the Tujunga Valley Realty board and other organizations in the hills. The stumbling block to the project is the inability of the Hansen Heights district to meet their part of the necessary financing at the present time, as stated by a representative of that district at a recent meeting of the realty board. Roscoe road is one of the oldest in the hills, and it was by way of this thoroughfare that the early settlers who colonized Tujunga were brought into the valley. Sunland pioneers used the road for years in traveling to the San Fernando valley towns. With the paving of Michigan avenue it, too, fell into neglect, the new route offering better travel.

Monte Vista boulevard, Tujunga, is advocated as the logical route to connect the state highway (Michigan avenue) with Big Tujunga canyon by the fact that it runs on an easy grade through the center of town to the entrance to the canyon, and would divert the canyon travel in such a way that congestion on Michigan avenue at the busiest point would be considerably lessened. This consideration is no slight one, especially in the summer months when travel through the valley and to the canyon is very heavy. The survey for the new road into Big Tujunga probably will be made high up on the east wall of the canyon to clear the location of the proposed reservoir that will be built with funds voted in the recent bond issue. In time it is believed that the county will build a standard road up Big Tujunga canyon and across the divide, connecting with highways to the north and shortening the distance by several miles.

Another project advocated and discussed is the extension of the Foothill boulevard from Lamanda park across the Arroyo Seco, to run along the hills on the north of Montrose, La Crescenta and Tujunga. This project seems somewhat remote at the present time, however, although it has been brought to the attention of various authorities.

STREET LIGHTING PLANS APPROVED

Property Owners in Favor of System on Part of Lankershim Blvd.

LANKERSHIM, June 2.—The Los Angeles art commission has approved the contemplated street lighting system for Lankershim boulevard, from Victory to Ventura boulevards.

The next step necessary is for the city electrician to prepare the petitions for signatures of property owners, authorizing the work of installation to proceed. The petitions are promised to be ready by the end of this week.

Fifty-one per cent of the frontage must be signed up before the lights can be ordered, but every indication points to the ready consent of the necessary number of property owners.

The plan has met with the hearty approval of all the large property owners, for they can readily see the benefit to be derived from having such a brilliantly lighted thoroughfare.

When these 275 lights are going full blast they will make Lankershim's principal boulevard brighter, safer and more beautiful than ever.

Mrs. N. E. McCann has left with the realtors of southern California for the national convention to be held at Washington, D. C., June 3 to 6. REPAIR WORK ON STREET PLANNED

Highway Link with Outside World to Be Replaced,
Says Supervisor

BURBANK, June 2.—Honolulu street, the first county road to connect the Sunland section with the outside country, is soon to be repaired, according to Supervisor Henry W. Wright. It was over this road that great quantities of wood were hauled in the early days to the Los Angeles markets. It is now proposed to make a modern road of it, which will be the easy and direct way to Tujunga valley. When the Begue ranch at the top of the divide is subdivided, which will be in the near future no doubt, this road will extend along the evergreen hills to connect with Huntington drive at Tujunga, which in turn will connect with Hansen road from Sunland to Roscoe, thus forming one continuous good road from Montrose to Roscoe, close to the evergreen hills all the way.

TUJUNGA, June 2.—Twenty-three pupils were rewarded Thursday night for their school work when they were given diplomas as testimonials to their success in having completed the grammar school course of study.

Graduation exercises were held in the school auditorium, which was built during the present school year. The 1924 class is the largest in the history of the Tujunga school and is a credit to Principal Aze and the teaching staff, not only in point of numbers, but also in the degree of fitness with which the members are equipped to take up high school work.

Several of the members of the class received special marks for exceptional excellence in their work and attendance. Various organizations were formed among the pupils for the advancement of their work and welfare.

Principal Fred W. Aze presented the class and made laudatory comments on the endeavors of each member. The program included the following numbers:

The June zone meeting will be held in Eagle Rock City, and in July the clubs will convene at Tujunga.

School Faculty Will Lose Four Members

TUJUNGA, June 2.—Most of the teachers of the Tujunga school staff are expected to continue here next year. Four of those who had chosen to leave this year have evinced a desire to go elsewhere, being Miss Gonzales, Miss Russell, Mrs. Wenzloff and Mrs. Manville.

Those who expect to remain are: Principal Aze, Miss Dodds, Miss Molitz, Miss Buckner, Mrs. Farn, Miss Schindler, Mrs. Johnston and Miss Jones.

Robbing the Community
Some people who are entirely honest and conscientious in their relations with individuals never stop to think that they owe a debt to the Community. Some who would never think of stealing from a person think nothing of robbing the Community of that which belongs to it.

The hermit who dwells in a cave on the mountain side and lives on herbs and berries and the flesh of animals owes no man anything. He lives alone. He has none of the advantages and consequently none of the responsibilities of association with his fellows.

Man learned in prehistoric times that it was expedient to live in communities. They banded together to defend themselves from wild beasts and savage tribes. They found it conducive to their welfare to hunt in groups and apportion the duties of the camp among themselves. Each one had some work to perform, each one owed a debt to the group of which he was a part.

As civilization has advanced our groups have become more complex and ramified and the advantages of living in communities are much greater and more numerous. And, in like proportion, our duties and our debts to the community in which we live far surpass those of the prehistoric man. In those days a man was compelled by his chief or his fellows to pay his obligation to the tribe; today it is his honesty and the knowledge that it is to his own interest and that of the community that compel the payment of the debt.

The savage, of old, would not have taken his substance outside of his group and given it to another tribe. He did not rob his own community in that way. But we, today, sometimes thoughtlessly, spend outside the money which belongs to our Community.

The advantages of Community life in Glendale are as great as any place in the world. We who are so fortunate as to live here should not hesitate to pay our debt to our Community in full. We owe it to ourselves and to the others who are banded together with us to make up the community that we spend our money in Glendale and thus help to still further increase the advantages of our Community life.

LA FOLLETTE BIDS FOR MORE POWER AS POLITICIAN

Senior Wisconsin Senator Shows Strategy In His Communist Expose

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Robert M. La Follette, senior senator from Wisconsin, whose group has held the balance of power in the House and Senate, now has reached out for the balance of power in the presidential campaign.

The Wisconsin senator's denunciation of the Communists who have sought to control the third party convention in St. Paul is a two-edged political weapon. With one stroke of the pen he has divorced himself from the ultra radicals of the country and reverted to the milder term of "progressive" by which his followers in congress call themselves. By the same token, he has announced his intention of departing from the two old line party platforms in his program and appeal for election as president of the United States on an independent ticket.

He Is Ambitious
No other political event has as much significance and far reaching effects wrapped up in it as the plan of La Follette. Neither the Republican nor democratic parties will make a platform to suit him. Yet he refuses to be as radical as the Communists. He is ambitious. He has been making the fight for progressivism for a generation. But for his break with Theodore Roosevelt he believes he would have been the candidate in 1912. He has been a consistent advocate for years of the same doctrines which have lately spread throughout a wider territory in the west than ever before. He was, of course, anti-war. But so was Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of England. France has turned to the Left—and so why not America? This is the La Follette theory this year.

Friends of William G. McAdoo have been saying La Follette would not run if the Democrats nominated a Progressive like McAdoo. But the Wisconsin senator doesn't want him to run because he thinks he can be elected. His idea is that he would have an easier time of it if both parties nominated conservatives and left the Progressive and Liberal vote to be won by him.

All Seek Satisfaction
The political strategists of both parties profess to be satisfied with the La Follette announcement in that they think it will help their respective causes. The Republicans feel it will unite the Conservative strength of the country behind President Coolidge, drawing Democratic Conservatives to his side in pivotal states. The Democrats think it will mean the victory of La Follette in certain western states which ordinarily would be carried by President Coolidge and which now would make Democratic victory as easy as it was in 1912 when the Republican party was split.

Some of these views are convincing but they will be expounded from now till election time in an effort to take advantage of the La Follette movement in the way that suits each party. It is not unlikely that the nomination of a Radical Democrat would make the Republican campaign one of Conservatism and "safe and sane" doctrine. The Democrats on the other hand would seek to prove that their radical is not as unsafe as La Follette and so on.

Commands Strength
Analyzing the national political situation, it would seem that the Wisconsin senator enters the race at the psychological moment and that rarely has there been a year in which a man of his theories could command much stronger support as today in the west. In 1912 the Democrats won by a combination of the west and south. The McAdoo Democrats have been counting on the same line of attack as they virtually concede most of the eastern states to President Coolidge. But if La Follette divides the west with a Democrat the chances are no candidate will have a majority of the electoral vote and the contest will have to be decided by the house of representatives voting by state delegations and the outcome of that is in doubt because the party affiliation is practically even. There is La Follette group would again control for there they could influence the choice of a Radical Democrat rather than a conservative Republican—they could repeat the combination they have been making in the present session of congress on legislation.

But the strategy of the McAdoo Democrats isn't the only strategy being expounded. The friends of Governor Al Smith and John W. Davis say it is foolish to concede the east, and that with more or less moist candidates the prohibition question could upset all calculations in the east and win a few important states for the Democrats. Then with La Follette capturing a few Republican states in the west, the Democrats would weaken Mr. Coolidge's chances in the east and, at the same time, get the benefit of the western revolt against regular Republicans.

Coolidge Has It
The La Follette announcement for the moment affects the Republicans much less than the Democrats, for President Coolidge is as good as nominated, and no threat from La Follette will change the minds of the already chosen delegates to the Cleveland convention. The Democrats, however, will be influenced by the La Follette decision to run inde-

FIREMEN HAMPERED
PASADENA, June 2.—Narrow streets and a curious public cost the Pasadena Fire fighting company its plant in a fire here Thursday, when the W. T. Downs stables burned and ignited adjoining property, it was revealed today in the report of the fire department in answer to complaints by the owner of the former firm that no water was placed on him until too late to save it. The inability of fire apparatus to get through the traffic jam was given as the cause for the delay on second alarm.

KNIGHTS SECURE BRILLIANT CAST

Commandery to Bring Clever Players and Singers In Benefit Program

The Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, has gathered together some of the best professional and semi-professional talent obtainable for its benefit program to be staged Thursday night in the Broadway High school auditorium. The proceeds from the show will be used to send the drill team to Seattle in 1925, where it will compete with teams from all over the United States.

The variety show is being put on by W. W. Worley, who has secured nine headline acts to make up the program. The opening number will be given by the Glendale High School orchestra of 30 pieces in selected numbers. Professor Ryboldt will then mystify the audience with tricks of magic and mind reading. He is said to be one of the cleverest entertainers of his kind on the coast.

Violin Selections
Calmon Luboviski, famous violinist, will play the following numbers: "Romance Andaluza" (Sarasate); "Liedsfreud" (Kreisler); and "Tambourine Chindos" (Kreisler). This number will be followed by the reading of the "Melting Pot" by A. B. Kachel. Mr. Kachel has made several appearances in Glendale, and is well-known for his excellent work.

Chemicals Extinguish Blaze In Paint Shop
A small blaze in an auto paint shop housed in a building owned by H. Wilson at 747 South San Fernando road caused nominal damage at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The fire started with a back fire from a car which ignited a bundle of rags on the floor. It was easily extinguished by the use of chemicals.

Blue-eyed men are better shots, according to United States army statistics, which show that of 1,000 men qualifying in military marksmanship, 605 have blue eyes and 395 brown.

They cannot endorse La Follette, as he professes to be a Republican. Would he endorse McAdoo? If he intended to do so, he would not be arranging to accept a nomination from his followers, who expect to gather in Cleveland, July 4, to form a platform. La Follette, who, in 1917, was ostracized by his colleagues in the senate, and who was investigated for his speeches against the war, now has become one of the most powerful individuals in the whole presidential campaign.

VARIED RULINGS PUZZLE THIRSTY WINDY CITIZENS

Illinois and Nebraska Judges Differ on Status of Private Stocks

By OWEN L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924
CHICAGO, June 2.—Fore-sighted home owners, who have had the temerity to maintain well equipped cellars, have every reason to be among this nation's most perplexed and apprehensive citizens. For, according to the rulings of two equally authoritative courts, they are once again—and cannot—maintain these cellars without fear of prohibition agents, padlocks and jail.

The complications all started in the home of John Ostrowsky, of this city, who had read somewhere a statement about a man's home being his castle in this land of freedom—and proceeded to fortify the old place against drought.

Prohibition agents descended on John's castle, searched it from cellar to garret—but mostly cellar—and found it to contain enough beer to moisten the Ostrowsky family's palates for many a moon.

Dark Clouds Appear
Despite his protestations, the agents dubbed Ostrowsky's home a "nuisance" and haled him to court, where he was compelled to put up a bond of $1,000 for the privilege of again entering his said castle. Should beer be found in the house again any time during the next year, Mr. Ostrowsky loses his $1,000 bond and maybe his house. He also faces the prospect of going to jail for contempt of court.

It was regarded as a very generous concession to Ostrowsky to permit him to use his castle at all, so, as an offset, the stipulation was made that at any time, day or night, with a warrant or without one, any peace officer can take a stroll through the Castle Ostrowsky, and make sure that the Ostrowsky retainers are not getting all beered up.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson of the Chicago district court signed the order making a peace officer promenade out of Ostrowsky's castle and casting gloom over the owners of some thousands of other well provisioned castle cellars in and about Chicago. Imagine the surprise then, of Mr. Ostrowsky and other castle owners hereabouts when they pick up their newspapers and learn what Federal Judge J. W. Woodruff of the Omaha, Neb., district court has to say on the same subject.

Opinions Differ
Throwing out of court an application for an injunction in the similar case, Judge Woodruff not only held that a man's home was his castle, but declared that the famous "padlocking" or injunction provisions of the Volstead act are unconstitutional. As he looks at it, those provisions violate the constitutional guarantee of the right of trial by jury.

Meantime, Mr. Ostrowsky and other Illinois castle holders are gazing meditatively toward the west and figuring on how much it would cost to put their castles on wheels and trundle them across the plains of Iowa into the moist home state of William Jennings Bryan.

Courts' Attitude
Some of them, disheartened at the prohibitive cost of such a move, are talking of defying the Wilkerson order and putting the discrepancy up to the president of the United States, relying on him to get them out of trouble. But, inasmuch as the Chicago courts have just sent back to jail one Volstead act violator whom the president freed and have ruled that even the president can't save a man put up for contempt of court—the courts' weapon under the padlocking law—such persons had better take another think.

The prohibition enforcement authorities in Chicago are warning castle owners and others that the surest way to keep out of trouble is to stop using or keeping intoxicants. And a few—but a very few—Chicagoans are reported to be taking them at their word.

The Hogues occupied their cabin on the northwest shore of the lake, while the Prestons camped near Pawkins camp. Mr. and Mrs. Preston report that they found ice formed during Friday night near their camp.

Both families returned to Glendale Sunday night.

BURGLARS STAGE WEEK-END RAIDS

Five Glendale Homes Looted By Thieves; Occupants Check Up Losses

After several weeks of inactivity, burglars again paid a visit to Glendale during the week-end and robbed several homes. In most cases the loss reported was light, although complete lists of articles missing have not been made in all reports.

Mrs. Gertrude Rutz reported this morning that thieves had ransacked the house at 325 La Fayette street. Clothing was scattered all over the floor, indicating that the burglars had made a thorough search. She stated all that was missing was a fox fur. Forcing a rear window, burglars entered the residence of Charles L. Bell, 1209 East Maple, between 8 and 10 o'clock Saturday night. The loss was small.

Leave Finger Prints
The residence of S. McDonald, 600 South Sycamore Canyon road was burglarized Saturday night, according to a report he made at police headquarters at 1 o'clock, Sunday morning. The value of the articles taken has not been determined.

Two houses were entered Sunday night, those of Mrs. E. H. Becktel and M. E. Zaun, 338 and 408 North Howard street, respectively. According to preliminary reports the loss was trivial.

Several good fingerprints and footprints were obtained by the police, and detectives are working on the case.

COMEDIANS PLAY BRILLIANT FARCE

'The Squash Head' Goes Over Big at Murphy's Tent Show at Stocker

"The Squash Head," the latest offering of Murphy's Comedians, opened in the big tent at Stocker street and North Brand boulevard last night to a crowd that packed the auditorium to the doors, in spite of the extra seats that had been provided when Murphy moved north.

From rise to fall of comedy moved the sparkling farce-comedy moved rapidly from one laughable situation to another, and the applause that met the players in the cast stimulated them to do their best for the audience, and the performance showed a verve and spirit that put the play across in a manner that stamped it as Murphy's biggest hit since he came to Glendale.

In the intervals between the acts the usual clever turns were presented by members of the company.

"The Squash Head" will run for the rest of this week at the prices that have been maintained all along.

LOCAL STUDENTS ARE CHOSEN TO ACT IN WEDDING

Lois Naudain, Evelyn Hunt Are Named by Clubs to Share In Ceremony

At the invitation of Beverly Hills, the Exchange and Optimist clubs of Glendale have nominated two of the most popular Glendale Union High school students for the distinction of impersonating "Miss Glendale" at the wedding of "beauty" (Miss Beverly Hills) and "industry" (Holsum the Third), at Holsum House, Beverly Hills, to be solemnized June 17.

Miss Lois Naudain, a senior, is the nominee of the Exchange club and Miss Evelyn Hunt, a junior, is the choice of the Optimist club. Both young women are very popular and have appeared in classical dances and have appeared in public. Miss Naudain will appear at the Broadway High school on Thursday night, June 5, as a feature of the Knights Templar drill team benefit. Miss Hunt, a pupil of Pearl Keller, is to be seen in the forthcoming annual Society Vaudeville performance for the benefit of the Orthopedic hospital of Los Angeles.

Set 'Glendale Night'
Inspirational in its theme, the setting for this symbolic union of beauty and industry will be the new $500,000 home of Holsum the Third, which is rapidly nearing completion at Beverly Hills. It is one more link in the growing chain of inter-communal events being stretched around Southern California, to "keep the white spot white."

A special night, known as "Glendale Night," will be set aside for this city, when local people will be the guests of honor at Holsum House and "Miss Glendale" will be hostess. In order to determine whether to Miss Naudain or Miss Hunt shall go this honor, voting coupons will appear later in the week, so that all may express their preference as to which of these popular high school girls shall represent this city as the hostess at Holsum House.

Friends of Veterans Asked to Give Names

Glendaleans having relatives who were world war veterans and who have been buried either at Forest Lawn Memorial park or Grand View cemetery and whose names were not included in the list published last Friday in The Glendale News are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Nellie Snow Hyer at Glendale 2423-W or the American Legion headquarters, Glendale 92.

Looks for Gasoline With Lighted Match

Looking into the gas tank of his car with a lighted match to determine how much "gas" he had, S. J. Hewitt set fire to the machine at 3:15 o'clock Sunday morning, north of Kenneth road. The car burned completely and was a total loss, according to the report of A. H. Lankford, fire chief.

ing it from what would ordinarily be paid in June. In December and September each only one-fourth of the March installment would be deducted.

Depends On Tax
The treasury department depends upon an even flow of money into the treasury from income taxes and when they fall short the government has to borrow money and pay interest, which increases the expense. In order to reduce borrowings to the minimum it was thought best not to permit the taxpayer to omit his June installment altogether but to let him pay a half of it then and take two other credits in September and December.

All the features of the new law will be retroactive to January 1 of this year. There is some doubt of the power of the government to levy an excise tax on gifts which were made prior to the signing of the new law. There have been some test cases in which officials contended that they had a right to make a certain transfer of property because no law was on the statute books and that they might not have done so had they had knowledge of the tax that would be later levied.

The government in the past has won these tests cases on the ground that an excise tax may be levied on any transaction which has occurred. There is room for difference of opinion on this feature of the law, however, and it is not unlikely that varying circumstances will lead to litigation and further testing of the constitutionality of this provision.

Hold No Fear

As for the retroactive effect on the transactions of the taxpayer generally the government has no doubt of the constitutionality of the new provisions for the individual's income is supposed to be calculated on a yearly basis and the revenue act of 1918, which was not signed until February, 1919, was retroactive to January 1, 1918, without being upon in the courts. There are other phases of the new bill which, as usual, will be open to attack in the courts, but they cannot be conjectured in advance, for nearly every revenue act has something in it which produces a lawsuit.

The gift tax provision is probably the principal one on which legal contest will be made. The treasury itself did not insert these ambiguous provisions in the bill but will be compelled to defend them when once the measure becomes law.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S UMBRELLA

Uncle Wiggily was starting out from his hollow stump bungalow one morning when Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy called to him: "Please wait a minute!" "Oh, did I forget my nose?" asked the rabbit gentleman with a laugh, as he put his paw up to his face. "I have my nose," he said, as he felt of it.

His muskrat lady housekeeper laughed a little and handed him his umbrella.

"Oh, do you think it will rain?" asked Mr. Longears.

"It looks very much like it," answered Nurse Jane, as she pointed to the clouds outside.

"Thank you. It is very kind of you to think of me, and want me to keep dry as I go adventuring," said the bunny uncle as, once more, he started off.

"Oh, I wasn't thinking so much of you as I was of the sugar," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, as she put on her apron, for she was going to give the dishes their bath.

"The sugar?" cried the rabbit uncle. "What sugar?"

"Have you forgotten so soon?" inquired Nurse Jane. "I asked you to bring me five pounds of sugar when you came back from looking for an adventure. And if it rains, the sugar will get all wet and melt. So I gave you your umbrella to hold over the bag of sugar."

"Oh, I see," chuckled the bunny. "You were thinking more of the sugar than you were of me when you handed me the umbrella. Oh, well, I am neither sugar nor salt. The rain won't hurt me, so I'll take my umbrella to hold over the bag of sweet stuff."

"Of course you can hold it over yourself too, if you like," said Nurse Jane.

"Oh, thank you," replied Mr. Longears.

Then the bunny uncle hopped away over the fields and through the woods looking here and there for an adventure. But not one could he find, and at last he reached the sugar store, and bought five pounds.

"How are you today, Uncle Wiggily?" asked the grocery dog gentleman, who kept the sugar store.

"Not so very well, thank you," answered the rabbit. "I haven't had any adventure." "That's too bad," barked the dog. "Perhaps you will have one on your way home. And I'm glad to see that you have an umbrella to keep the sugar dry, for I think it is going to rain very soon."

So Uncle Wiggily started to hop back to his hollow stump bungalow, carrying his umbrella and the bag of sugar. All of a sudden, as he was hopping past a sassafras bush, there was a queer noise and out popped the Bob Cat.

"Mew, mew!" howled the Bob Cat. "Hello, Uncle Wiggily. I'm going your way and I'll walk with you."

"Oh," said the bunny. "But I'm going home, and, if it is all the same to you, I wish you wouldn't go home with me. You might scare Nurse Jane. So don't bother, if you please."

"Oh, it isn't any bother at all," said the Bob Cat, catching hold of Uncle Wiggily's sleeve with his claws. "Besides, you aren't going home, you know. Not going home—not at all!"

"Where—where am I going?" asked the rabbit, timidly.

"You are going to my den! I'm going to take you there and let my family of little Bob Cats see you," said the big Bob Cat.

"I—I'm afraid they might scratch me," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, I guess they will," said the big Bob Cat. "My little Bob Cats are very good scratchers," and he twisted his silly little tail around like the stem of a watch. Uncle Wiggily didn't know what to do. The Bob Cat pulled him along and then, all of a sudden, it began to rain.

"Oh, I mustn't let the sugar get wet," cried the rabbit. Then, forgetting the fear of the Bob Cat, Uncle Wiggily pulled his paw away and raised the umbrella. And, as he did so, one of the umbrellas points caught the Bob Cat's hat and knocked it off.

"Hi there! Look out what you're doing!" snarled the Bob

Cat. "I'm catch cold if my head gets wet." He put on his hat again, but Uncle Wiggily, trying to hold the umbrella over the sugar, once more caught one of the sharp points in the cap and off it popped again.

"I say, look out! Quit that! Stop!" howled the Bob Cat.

"I must keep Nurse Jane's sugar dry, no matter what happens," said Uncle Wiggily. He twisted the umbrella about and the end of one of the ribs hit the Bob Cat in the eye.

"Ouch," howled the Bob Cat. Then another rib tickled him under the chin. "Oh, ho! Oh, ha!"

The Bob Cat pulled him along.

Oh, hoo!" giggled the Bob Cat. Then the umbrella knocked his hat off again, and he cried: "Oh, go on with you! I'm not going to walk with anybody who can't carry an umbrella better than you do!" Then away ran the Bob Cat, off through the rain, leaving Mr. Longears at home.

"Good riddance," laughed the bunny, and then, holding the umbrella over the bag of sugar, he safely hopped through the rain drops. He was very glad Nurse Jane had made him take his umbrella.

And if the sugar spoon doesn't sprinkle cracker crumbs in the soup dish, to tickle the sardine when it goes to sleep, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the movie worm.

The Fiesta de las Flores, another of the series of garden fetes being given by the parishioners of the Holy Family church will make its bid for popular approval at Casa Verdugo next Wednesday.

A number of girls of the High school freshman class will entertain with a pretty little informal party this evening in the home of Marjorie Imler, Palm Villa, West Park avenue.

If the citizens of Glendale respond as they are expected to, Casa Verdugo will soon have a handsome hotel, the first unit of which will cost $100,000. The hotel as now planned will be a three-story brick structure, built on Spanish mission lines, and will occupy a site in beautiful La Ramada park. Back of the movement are W. B. Kelly, L. C. Brand, Charles H. Toll, F. M. Rawlinson, Joseph McMillan and others. Alfred Priest is the architect.

Refuses Her Heart Balm

GERTRUDE GLADYS HUNTER deposits the money received in settlement of her $200,000 breach of promise suit against PAUL E. HELLER in a bank and declares she won't use it.

NEWARK, N. J., May 29.—

Revenge is not sweet to her.

Newark is wondering if Gertrude Gladys Hunter, gifted and young and stately-eyed, will overcome her bitterness of spirit against Paul E. Heller, millionaire manufacturer, and make use of the substantial checks given in settlement out of court of the $200,000 breach of promise case she brought against him in November, 1922.

At present Miss Hunter finds it difficult to use the sum. The money is on deposit in a bank. "For all I care, it can stay there. I cannot bring myself to touch it," she says.

"If you could know the bitterness of planning to marry a man whom you adore only to find him suddenly changed; if you could know the way I gave up good times for two long years after that through humiliation at the whole thing and if you could know the nights I have cried myself to sleep, you would know how hard it will be to bring myself to touch that money."

Although Mr. Heller offered Miss Hunter many rich gifts during his courtship, she says she refused all but one gift—a Brazilian parrot, of which she has grown fond.

THE GLENDALE

Lillian Gish does excellent work in "The White Sister," which opened yesterday at the Glendale Theatre. Like D. W. Griffith, her director, Henry King, is able to the very heights of her art. The breathe the famous role of the F. Marion Crawford novel. There has not been anything in recent films to compare with the pathos, suspense, spectacular magnificence and gorgeous finale of this film, which enables the star to reach the very heights of her art. The picture continues until Friday.

JACKIE INHERITS RAGS

Jackie Coogan comes honestly by his celebrated "enduring rags"—his mother wore them first.

According to Will R. Walling, veteran actor of stage and screen who is playing a leading role in Jackie's adaptation of Willard Mack's original story, "Little Robinson Crusoe," Jackie's mother, thus garbed, used to seat herself in Walling's lap and continued thus to do for a period of forty-eight weeks, which was the term of the life of the old California stock company in which Mrs. Coogan won fame as a child actress and Mr. Walling played paternal roles.

NEELEY EDWARDS BACK

Neeley Edwards, associated for years with Bert Roach and Alice Howell in Universal comedies, is back at Universal City again after a brief excursion to other film realms where he played straight roles. But the call of the comedy proved too strong, and now the family, Neeley, Bert and Alice Howell, is starting on another series of mirth provokers to add to the sixty to their credit at present.

THE T. D. & L.

"Three Weeks," made from Ellen Glyn's well-known novel, opened at the T. D. & L. theatre yesterday, and continues today and Tuesday. The "Queen" is played by Aileen Pringle. Conrad Nagel plays "Paul."

THE GATEWAY

"The Hoosier Schoolmaster," opened at the Gateway theatre yesterday, and will continue Monday and Tuesday.

VOTE FOR FILM CAST

The public will select the players for the two principal roles of "The Great Divide," William Vaughn Moody's American classic which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios will film on an elaborate scale.

Telegrams are being sent to motion picture critics all over the country, and the tremendous Loew theatre chain will be used to find out the public sentiment. Announcements will be flashed on all the screens asking theatregoers express their wishes. Librarians, English professors and authors will also be asked to express their opinions.

NEW RAWLINSON FILM

Herbert Rawlinson, Universal star, has begun work on "The Flower of Napoli," a Gerald Beaumont story of the love of a little Italian flower girl for an Irish traffic cop. Edward Leamle is directing and cast includes Madge Bellamy, Henry Mann, Nick De Ruiz and other well known actors. The production is being elaborately staged.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 2.—Political leaders of both parties will watch with unusual interest the results of Florida's primaries on June 3. On that day Florida's 120,000 registered voters will decide whether Florida is to play a negative or a positive part in the National Democratic Convention.

This is the year when Florida will have an opportunity to come into the political limelight as never before. William Jennings Bryan, the Commonwealth, who still is conceded by many to be the leader of Democracy, has offered himself to the voters of this state as one of their twelve representatives at the New York convention.

It generally is conceded, however, that Bryan will be elected a delegate-at-large from Florida and head the delegation. Florida citizens are proud of their distinguished citizen, and they realize the huge amount of advertising will give them in the convention.

These questions were put to Bryan:

"What are you going to do about the prohibition question?"

"Are you going to fight the nomination of Al Smith, New York's favorite son?"

"Are you opposed to a Catholic presidential nominee?"

"What stand are you going to take on the Klan issue?"

To all he replied:

"I do not care to reveal my future plans until I am elected."

A few weeks ago there appeared to be little interest in the presidential race in the state. But public interest has been aroused to a rather high pitch, through newspaper articles.

McAdoo and Underwood are the only candidates entered in the race. Neither has done any active campaigning in this state. McAdoo sent a lengthy message to a group of his supporters gathered in convention the other day, but this is the extent of his campaigning in Florida.

Judging from all outward appearances, McAdoo seems to have a slight edge over the Alabama senator.

There is another class of people who will watch Florida's primaries—the luxury seeking, winter resort folk.

Five are in the governor's race in this state. Some of these are running on platforms that they will "clamp the lid down." Pleasure-seeking people do not want this kind of governor in office.

Sidney J. Catts, one of the candidates, was governor when the peonage cases were at the forefront of public interest. He was prosecuted as a result of these cases, but obtained a "clean slate" at his trial. He is a former preacher, and in a number of ways established quite a reputation for himself while in office.

John W. Martain, another candidate, was three times mayor of Jacksonville. His close opponent is Frank E. Jennings, also of Jacksonville. He was former speaker of the house in the state legislature. He is laying claim to the women's votes, who this year cast their first ballots in the governor's race.

The other candidates are Worth W. Trammell, of Miami, and Charles H. Spencer, of Tampa.

From Book Of Life

THE "WILL OF THE PEOPLE"

The "Will of the People," John Stuart Mill found, practically means, the will of the most numerous or the most active part of the people; the majority, or those who succeed in making themselves accepted as the majority; the people consequently may desire to oppress a part of their number; and precautions, he thought, are as much needed against this, as against any other abuse of power.

The "people" who exercise the power, are not always the same people with those over whom it is exercised, and the "self-government" spoken of, is not the government of each by himself but of each by all the rest.

"Like other tyrannies," said Mill, one of the great English thinkers, "the tyranny of the majority was at first, and is still vulgarly held in dread, chiefly as acting through the acts of public authorities. But reflecting persons perceived that when society is itself the tyrant—society collectively, over the separate individuals who compose it—its means of tyrannizing are not restricted to the acts which it may do by the hands of political functionaries.

"Society can and does execute its own mandates; and if it issues wrong mandates instead of right, wrong mandates instead of right, or any mandates at all in things with which it ought to meddle, it practices a social tyranny, more formidable than many kinds of political oppression, since, though not usually upheld by such extreme penalties, it leaves fewer means of escape, penetrating much more deeply into the details of life, and enslaving the soul itself.

"Protection, therefore, against the tyranny of the magistrate is not enough; there needs protection also against the tyranny of prevailing opinion and feeling; against the tendency of society to impose, by other means than civil penalties, its own ideas and practices as rules of conduct on those who dissent from them; to fetter the development, and, if possible, prevent the formation, of any individual not in harmony with its ways, and compel all characters to fashion themselves upon the model of its own.

"There is a limit to the legitimate interference of collective opinion with individual independence; and to find that limit, and maintain it against encroachment is as indispensable to a good condition of human affairs, as protection against political despotism.

"All that makes existence valuable to any one depends on the enforcement of restraints upon the actions of other people. Some rules of conduct, therefore, must be imposed, by law in the first place, and by opinion on many things which are not fit subjects for the operation of law. What these rules should be, is the principal question in human affairs; but if we except a few of the most obvious cases, it is one in which the least progress has been made in resolving.

"No two ages, and scarcely any two countries, have decided it alike; and the decision of one age or country is a wonder to another.

"Yet the people of any given age and country no more suspect any difficulty in it, than if it were a subject on which mankind had always been agreed. The rules which obtain among themselves appear to them self-evident and self-justifying.

"This all but universal illusion is one of the examples of custom, which is not only, as a proverb says a second nature, but is continually mistaken for the first. The effect of custom, in preventing any misgiving respecting the rules of conduct which mankind imposes on one another, is all the more complete because the subject is one of which it is not generally considered necessary that reasons should be given, either by one person to others, or by each to himself.

People are accustomed to believe and have been encouraged in the belief by some who aspire to the characters of philosophers, that their feelings, on subjects of this nature, are better than reasons, and tender reasons unnecessary. The practical principle which guides them to their opinions on the regulation of human conduct is the feeling in each person's mind that everybody should be required to act as he, and those with whom he sympathizes, would like them to act.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D.
Author of Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories

In general the diet in diabetes should be one low in carbohydrates (starches and sugars). Acid fruits, greenleaf vegetables and nuts, EXCEPT peanuts and chestnuts, are the foods that have the least amount of carbohydrates.

In a recent "Answer to Correspondents" the word "except," through a typographical error, was made to read "especially," which gives an altogether different and wrong meaning to that last sentence. Those of you who have been following our column know this was wrong, and I sincerely thank those of you who have called my attention to the error. The fact that I stated in the same "Answer" that diabetes is not a case for home treatment will doubtless have robbed the error of harm. I fervently hope so.

Remember, the diet in diabetes should, in general, be one low in carbohydrates; and acid fruits, greenleaf vegetables and nuts EXCEPT peanuts and chestnuts, are the foods that have the least amount of carbohydrates.

ECZEMA

Some time ago a well-known physician, in an article on eczema, said that it is a grab-bag into which the doctors throw a multitude of unrelated skin troubles and into which the people pitch out all the eruptions not already thrown in; and since the collection is a hodge-podge, it follows that what will cure one case will not cure another.

Since that article was written we have learned considerably more about eczema than we knew then. One thing we have always suspected, and now know, is that the diet of the patient often has to do with its occurrence. In many cases of obscure eczema it has been found that some of the foods are irritating factors—especially some protein, and the person is what we call sensitized to this protein.

This food sensitization is sometimes also called food idiosyncrasy. It may be temporary or lasting. Usually before this sensitization appears, there has been some irritation of the intestinal tract by over or under eating, or from an unbalanced diet, etc. This condition has not only crippled the production of the digestive juices, but has also weakened the digestive tract so that undigested protein passes through it, gaining access to the blood and then to the skin and other organs. Naturally, not being properly prepared to be taken up by the blood, it causes disturbances such as eczema, hives, asthma and digestive upsets.

It is often found that egg protein (mostly the white of the egg) is the offender, and certain meats such as veal and pork; sometimes the protein of cereals and other foods will be found to be the offenders. Laboratories are now giving protein tests to determine which protein is the culprit, when it is suspected that the disorders are caused by a protein.

Many eczematous babies are overfat, and limiting their food so that they will not gain so rapidly, will cure the disease. Nursing babies who are eczematous have to be treated through the mother. Undernourished children who have eczema can seldom be cured until this condition is brought to normal.

External irritants can also cause eczema.

Drs. Knowles and Corson say in the Transactions of the American College of Physicians that about one-sixth of the eczematous eruptions they have encountered are the result of irritating substances used in different occupations. This form of eczema almost always takes place on the hands; although in some trades the poisons are rubbed into certain parts of the body by the clothing and eczema develops in such areas. Among the occupations which are most liable to cause eczema are washing, cooking, handling sugar, photography, working in the manufacture of chemicals and ammunition, etc. Dyeing the hair may cause eczema.

As a means of prevention of eczema to external causes, Drs. Knowles and Corson recommend the following ointment for external application:

Use gentle heat to dissolve three parts of petroleum jelly to one part of lanolin. Mix and add 10 to 15 drops of 90 per cent carbolic acid to each 12 ounces of the mixture.

Wash the skin habitually exposed with soap and warm water. Rinse with warm water. Apply the ointment and rub in for two or three minutes. Dry with a clean cloth.

This ointment can also be applied thickly and left on under bandages. Another ointment that is used is known as Lassar's Paste.

Babies may have to have a mask made to hold the ointment on, and they may have to have their arms put in splints so they cannot scratch. (We have an article concerning these masks and splints under the title of "Eczema and Cradle Caps in Babies.") You may have it by observing the rules of the column—that is, send in a s. a. s. e. with your request.

So, if you have eczema, see if you can't determine the cause, whether external or internal, and act accordingly.

Europeans Wed U. S. Girls

NEW YORK, May 30.—The United States is being drawn into international alliances at a rate undreamed of by the most irreconcilable irreconcilables. Not since before the war have American girls been in such demand abroad as brides.

Two princes, a count and an earl have been netted by Cupid for North American beauties in a short time. Prince Erik of Denmark, who carried off the heart of Lois Frances Booth of Ottawa only a few weeks ago, is back in the United States with her to attend the wedding of his brother, Prince Viggo, to Miss Eleanor M. Green of New York.

The marriage of Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt to the Hon. F. Cecil, scion of an old English family, was a notable event of last month. Miss Mary Wallace, daughter of Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, was a figure in a recent notable international wedding in Washington, attended by the president, the bridegroom being Dr. Charles Bruggman, Swiss diplomat.

Old Order Reversed
Now comes news of two other prospective alliances of international import. The engagement of Miss Barbara Murray of New York, to Lord Doune, heir to the

When very cold, stir into it a pinch of salt, one tablespoon of vanilla, and two cups of thin cream. Turn into a freezer can, not filling more than three-fourths full, and freeze as any cream. Serve with the following:

Marshmallow Sauce for Chocolate Ice Cream: Cut one-half pound of marshmallows into small bits and melt these in the top of a double boiler. Dissolve two cups of confectioners' sugar in two-thirds of a cup of boiling water and add this to the melted marshmallows. Stir till blended, remove from range and cool before serving on the ice cream.

A TEST, PERHAPS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 20 and I go with a girl 17 years of age. We have been going together for two years. For the last six months she has gone with another young man the same age as I.

We were going together with

Earl of Moray, head of one of the oldest and most important Scottish families, was announced almost simultaneously with the engagement of Miss Helen Marye, daughter of the former ambassador to Russia and Mrs. George Marye, of Washington, to Count Lamberto Negri Arnoldi of Italy.

But styles in international marriages in which American heiresses are principals have changed. No longer are the brides Europeanized; rather the bridegrooms are Americanized. The Princes Erik and Viggo renounced their rights to succession to the Danish throne in order to lead American girls to the altar.

Erik has bought a home in California and he and his wife probably will become American citizens. Before Miss Vanderbilt changed her name to Cecil she made the Hon. John quit the British diplomatic service and promise to live with her in North Carolina. He probably will become an American citizen.

Miss Murray, however, will live in Scotland. Her fiancé, Lord Doune (Francis Douglas Stuart), is descended from the Stuarts who once ruled both Scotland and England. His father is the seventeenth Earl of Moray. He is the holder of the military cross, won as a soldier in the Royal Flying Corps. The Moray peerage is a very wealthy one and has five seats, all of which Lord Doune will inherit. He probably is wealthiest of all the foreigners who have claimed American brides recently. He met Miss Murray at a dance in New York in 1922.

Miss Marye is only 17, and her father, it is said, is frowning on an early marriage to Count Arnoldi who is an officer in the Italian cavalry. He has obtained leave of absence to come to America and talk it over further with Papa Marye.

the impression of "steady company." She says she loves me the better but I don't know if she really does. I love her very much. I have been away from her home town for a year and a half and have never gone with any one except one time.

I go down to see her as often as I can, which is about every two weeks. I always stay over Sunday. She treats me nicely while at her home, but she acts a little queer back of it. We have talked of marriage several times, but I cannot get married until I am of age. She says she will marry me if I will marry right away. She does not go with men for money or cars as I had a car for six months while going with her and when I disposed of it she treated me the same. It is but six months until I am of age.

Do you think she would love me as much as I love her if I would marry her as she wishes or says she wishes? Do you think it is likely that she would be contented to live with one man or do you think she would trifle? Should I drop her company? RED SOX.

I hardly believe a 17-year-old girl knows what she wants. If I were you I would forget about the arrangement of "steady company" and encourage her to go with other young men so that she will have a chance to test her affection for you. It would certainly be foolish to marry her before you are of age. Probably she is only testing you and suggests that to see what you will do. Since you love her very much, do not drop her. I believe you will find that the more freedom you give her to go with other young men, the better satisfied she will be with you. By the time you are ready to marry, you will know better whether or not she loves you enough to be contented as your wife. If she really loves you, there is no reason for you to believe she will trifle, especially if you have given her freedom and a chance to enjoy other young men before marriage.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

FACE STEAMING

Face steaming is a dangerous weapon in the hands of a careless person. If it is done too often or too violently it dries up the skin, induces wrinkles, enlarges the pores and, by relaxing the muscles too much, tends to make the cheeks and chin sag. But face steaming properly done is most valuable as a means of refreshing and cleansing the complexion.

For ordinary purposes, an old Turkish towel should be wrung out of hot water and held over the skin until it begins to cool, which will be in less than a minute. It should be wrung out of water again and held over the face, and possibly even a third time. This is enough to draw the blood to the skin, making the face rosy and miraculously wiping out for the moment all signs of age. But this is only the beginning of the treatment.

At once, before the skin has had time to cool and the pores, consequently to close, the skin should be rubbed with cleansing cream, flesh building cream or special ointment, according to the treatment you are giving yourself. The preliminary steaming, then, is merely to open the pores enough to give these beauty ointments a better chance.

In severe cases of blackheads, pimples and such eruptions, a different form of treatment is used. A large kettle of boiling water is poured into an already warmed basin, a couple of thick towels or blankets are thrown over the head, and the face is held over the basin in a bath of rising steam. There is always enough air to breathe.

This form of steaming can be kept up for five or ten minutes, then the special ointments are applied after the wet skin has been wiped off with a very hot towel. A great deal of dirt and other matter that has been imprisoned deep in the pores can be wiped off, so the ointments can do their work better. Blackheads can be easily squeezed out, and pimples pricked with an antiseptic needle.

Rose M.—Try witch hazel or any toilet vinegar as a base for powder; and if the powder cakes as it does when you use cold cream, you will be better off not to use it; instead, wipe off skin occasionally with a small piece of chamois.

Constant Reader.—The black-head powder is made by mixing together two ounces of corn starch, one ounce of almond meal.

The Face Should Be Steamed and one ounce of powdered borax. Dampen a little of the mixture and rub into pores with fingertips. Let dry on for a short time and wash off, and, after skin is dried, massage with a cream or a fine oil.

to marry him, but I haven't told him I would because he would expect me to go to his church. He drives nearly five miles to see me every other night, regardless of how badly I treat him.

What shall I do? Give him up for some one older than myself?
SUSAN.
When you promise "steady company" you have no right to go with other young men. Either take back your promise or devote your time exclusively to the one boy. He is so very young that it seems to me a mistake to consent to such a thing as "steady company." My dear girl, get over the habit of teasing and trying to get even. People who indulge that way usually pay the price very dearly sooner or later. It is most unkind and childish. Do not consider marriage for some time at least. It seems to me it would be much wiser to have an understanding that each is free to go with others. But I do not think it necessary for you to drop the boy entirely.

HE IS INDIFFERENT
Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a girl of 16 and have been going with a boy of 20 for three months steady. Another friend called up and wanted me to go for a ride and he saw us. The next time he saw me he seemed real angry, but we made up and promised each other not to go with any one else. I have not gone with any one since. But he seems different now. I did not blame him then, but the other night I was out walking and I met him face to face and he was with another girl. He spoke in the usual way. He used to call up every day, but he has not lately. Do you think he cares for me any longer?
HEART-BROKEN.
The boy has certainly grown indifferent to you or he would treat you as he did formerly. Since he has broken his promise to you, consider your agreement at an end and do not hesitate to go with other boys. You may find that he will want to come back when he discovers you are indifferent too and not suffering from a broken heart. It would be very foolish to let him know that you feel your heart is broken even if that is the truth.

RECORD OF SOX REMAINS CLEAN, BEAT ALL-STARS

Whitewash Colored Players While Ten Runs Piled Up by Glendale

By AL DIX

Of The Evening News Staff.

Frank Kerwin, who guides the destinies of the Glendale White Sox off of the ball field, sprung a "cold deck" on Jasper Washington yesterday and supplied Carl Sawyer with a heavier struggle to most people in these parts, who proceeded to blank the Colored All-Stars, 10 to 0. The gentleman went by the name of Palmer, and it was evident after the first two innings that any number of runs over one that the Sox amassed would be superfluous, it was the fifteenth straight win for the Sox, and their sixth victory in the summer league, with no defeats.

Palmer held the visitors to three hits in eight innings, two of which were gathered by Fagin, captain-pitcher-second baseman. Fagin, who pitched for the Sox, was helped by Sawyer to Foote. Outside of this the visitors were helpless in the face of Palmer's delivery. He whiffed eight during the afternoon, and in addition got the first hit of the game in the third inning.

An idea of Mr. Palmer's prowess may be gained from the seventh inning, which was the only chance the All-Stars had to score. Foote, a very dark-skinned boy who furnished the first hit for the Sox during the afternoon, hit the first ball pitched to deep center for a triple. With none out, Palmer's shut out looked bad. Butcher hit to Palmer, who struck the ball with his glove, missing it and blocking so nobody could get. The visiting catcher was safe at first. Hines popped to Shields, and Adams' best was a weak fly to Sawyer, who made a snap throw to Shell-enbach and caught Butcher asleep off of first.

Another one of the Palmer brothers, a southpaw, pitched the last inning, and although wild, managed to set the visitors down without letting in a run.

But twenty-eight men faced Palmer the first during eight innings. He struck out six of the first nine men that came to bat, and made Jasper Washington's proteges appear like so many large globes of African cheese.

The Sox were unable to do any damage until the fourth, when a mob boy by the name of Linder kept them well in hand until that session. He walked Sawyer to start the inning, and Shell-enbach drove a liner to left. Orsatt laid down a perfect sacrifice, and Joe Hirigoven broke the tie when he hit a homer over the right field fence. Mr. Fagin inserted himself into the proceedings at this time, sending Linder to second and Harris to right field. Sullivan greeted him with a single, but he was able to extinguish the blaze without any more damage.

The next inning, however, was his downfall. Dorman and Shields both beat out infield hits, and Sawyer was safe at first and Dorman at third when Shields was thrown out at second. Everybody said, Dorman was the hero of the game, but he was not. He was foisted Shellenbach's roller. Mr. Orsatt drove a double to right that scored Sawyer. This was the cue for the entrance into the box of Pepper, Fagin going into the infield at second. Hirigoven drove a sacrifice fly to center, and Shellenbach scored after the catch.

Palmer's Next Three hits, a walk, a sacrifice and an error netted three more runs in the seventh, which, with one that had been added in the sixth, made the game a walkaway. It was the worst licking the Sox have given any visiting team for a long time.

Next Sunday Sawyer takes his team to Brookside park in Pasadena, to play the Pasadena Merchants in what promises to be the best game of the season. Lorin Ury would give his straw hat to beat the Sox, in order to make good a threat he made at the end of the last meeting of the two teams in Glendale. He expects 5000 people to be at the game.

Palmer the first will again do the deceiving for the Sox, with Lefty Manker on the hill for the Merchants. Many Glendale folks are planning to go along and see the festivities.

BASEBALL QUESTION BOX

If you have some question to ask about baseball, write to the Editor of the Evening News, 511 World Building, New York.

QUESTION—Would you please tell me how the scores are regulated in case of rain? For instance on Saturday the score was Rochester 3, Baltimore 3. Sunday it was raining where Rochester played and not where Baltimore played and Monday's paper showed Baltimore 4, Rochester 3.

ANSWER—It would appear that there had been a blunder somewhere by which the score of a game had been used. Scores are handled in exactly the same manner when it rains and shortens a game as if the game were legal length except that if the game has not become legal there is no score.

QUESTION—Will you please tell me which is the more valuable player, Babe Ruth or Frank Frisch?

ANSWER—Personal opinion is all that makes one player more valuable than another in most cases to the fan. If you have an opinion of your own, stick to it.

QUESTION—I have noticed that most of the pitchers in our Saturday Afternoon League stand with their right foot back of the rubber and wind up to deliver the ball. Is that not illegal?

ANSWER—The ball must not be delivered to the batsman with either foot back of the pitcher's plate and winding up to deliver the ball is part of the pitcher's delivery.

SPORT WISDOM

By WALTER CAMP
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, June 2.—John K. Norton, the old Stanford hurdler who made a world record four years ago in the Pacific Coast Low Hurdles tryouts is expected to compete in the eastern sectional tryouts at New York Stadium June 7 according to advice received here.

Norton now is living in Washington. He has been working out with the Georgetown track athletes and is reported to be in good condition.

Much has been written and said about the "sealer's orders" on which Miss Helen Willis, the American woman tennis champion sailed for the Olympics. No one knows what old Doctor Fuller, the Berkeley club professional who is her mentor, put in those sealed orders. But our advice to Doc Fuller will be to cable Miss Willis to open her orders before the eve of the big match. We had one experience last fall of an attempt to instruct players at the time of a match instead of doing it some days or weeks in advance. It did not work out very well.

Lord Rock Savage will lead the British polo invasion of America and probably will bring with him Lord Wodehouse and a broader selection in point of numbers than ever before. He is expected to bring seven players instead of the usual team of five.

Baseball Back In Boston

LEE FOHL, manager this year of the Boston Red Sox, is the man responsible for Hub residents paying hard cash to see games; while STEVE O'NEILL might be called a contributory factor in the comeback of baseball in Beantown.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News

The exact fate of the Boston Red Sox in the hectic race now on in the American league is unknown at present, of course.

This must and can be truthfully said of the team right now, however.

The new owners and Lee Fohl have rebuilt a shattered, demoralized, ransacked misshapen outfit into a ball club that has already made itself feared around the circuit.

And, with all due respect to Bobby Quinn and his associates it must be said that Lee Fohl deserves the major portion of the credit.

Fohl's action in getting Steve O'Neill in the trade which ostensibly centered around George Burns and Bill Wambaggs, might be said to have turned, alone, the Red Sox into a different ball club.

O'Neill deserves the credit for bringing Howard Ehmke into dependable form, for making a different pitcher of Ferguson, and for nursing the venerable Jack Quinn up to his present form.

The veteran Steve alone is responsible for the miraculous change worked in Bill Pierce. This pitcher hasn't set the world afire this season, but he shows the results of O'Neill's work with him.

He has always had the natural ability. The jinx, ill luck, lack of confidence or something else has held him back. Under Steve's tutelage he has overcome these intangible obstacles. In addition to this change he is acquiring a knuckleball. When he gets that shoot to behave itself watch him.

Fuhr, a young fellow who won 23 games and lost 14 with Mobile in the Southern association last season, is coming along fine under Steve's guidance.

Just what part of Fohl's success can be attributed to his change in his managerial methods cannot be determined, of course. For the first year in his experience as a big league pitcher Fohl is managing his team from the bench exclusively. In previous years he spent most of his time on the coaching lines. It has been argued of recent years that a manager not playing in the game ought to confine his activities to the bench.

PORTLAND, June 2.—Portland and Vernon split even in Sunday's double-header, the visitor's losing the first game, 8 to 3, but winning the second, 8 to 6. This gives the Tigers the series no matter how the game today finishes.

Lefty Thomas turned in his second win of the series yesterday, holding the Beavers to six hits. The day was marked by the number of home runs—Poole, Blakeley, Menoskey and McDonald driving the ball out of the lot.

FIGHT WITH CARP SHOWS REAL TOM

Easy to See Why T. Gibbons Stayed 15 Rounds With Dempsey, Says Walsh

By DAVID J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 2.—It required no elastic imagination to understand why Tom Gibbons remained, as was, for fifteen rounds with Jack Dempsey at Shelby after watching the St. Paul entry slip punch after punch from Carpenter's right with his agile and intelligent head at Michigan City on Saturday. Not a few chronic doubters have maintained that Dempsey was very kind, not to say courteous, to Gibbons.

Shelby, who saw Gibbons on Saturday was to disbelieve this theory. We doubt that the man ever lived who could knock Gibbons out if the latter was in there for the sole purpose of staying.

The common impression among "ringiders" on Saturday was that Carpenter had gone away back behind the form of the nimble figure that faced Dempsey several years ago.

Charley White, Chicago lightweight, who viewed Saturday's proceedings with an interested eye, takes violent exception. He admits the obvious, to wit, that Georges was slower on his feet, but claimed that the Frenchman was punching faster and better than the day he met Dempsey. It is White's opinion that Carpenter would have knocked out any light heavyweight in the world, barring Gibbons.

One Jump Ahead
"You don't want to forget that Carpenter was punching at a faster target in Gibbons than he was against Dempsey," asserted Charley. "Gibbons' speed naturally would make Carpenter's punches look slower. But, in my opinion, they were faster than the day he met Dempsey. They would have knocked out nine of ten big men boxing today, but in Gibbons they were being sent after a man who always is one jump ahead of them."

White has no plausible explanation of Gibbons' failure to stop Carpenter when he had the latter helpless through the final four rounds. Neither has anyone else. Some say it was Tom's humane instincts. We doubt that. He had not much at stake, and a knock-out would have added 100 per cent to the prestige of his victory.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—San Francisco and San Jose split the double-header and the series yesterday, when the Seals took the morning game 4 to 1; and the Solons the afternoon pastime 6 to 5. Death Valley Jim Scott was himself in the morning. The visitors could do nothing with him.

What is more likely is that super-caution prompted Gibbons to refrain from attempting anything hasty. He had been hit with that right in the fourth round and wanted no more of it. Also he had been duly informed of the French reputation for cunning, and probably figured that Carpenter's simulation of a sprained ankle might very well be excellent dramatics, staged as a possible means of opening up Gibbons' defense. The fact that Georges let fly with several rights while hobbling away may have lent color to this supposition.

In any case, Gibbons did let down in the last two rounds, from super-caution, super-sportsmanship, or what not. We cannot conceive of the typical ring "killer," such as Dempsey, lending himself to any of these unprofessional propensities. An opponent's injured ankle simply would have been accepted as a lucky break by Dempsey.

Bees Gather Only One Run Off Meyers In First; Three In Final

By BEN M'GUIRE
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—The Angels evened up the series with the Bees yesterday afternoon, before a crowd of 11,000, by copying the double-header 8 to 1 and 12 to 3. "Dim" Meyers, pitcher Bees hurler, was pitted against Elmer Ponder, erstwhile Angel twirler in the first game, and allowed his former teammates eight blows. Ponder was touched up for ten hits before he was taken out in favor of a pinch hitter in the seventh. Lefty Thomas, an 18-year-old rookie, finished the game.

Payne let the Bees down with six hits in the second stanza. McCabe, who was on the mound for Salt Lake was very ineffective, and was replaced in the fifth by Thomas. Hood, Angel leftfielder, clouted the ball over the right field fence with the bases loaded in the fourth game.

By FAIR PLAY
NEW YORK, June 2.—Firpo is coming to the United States to fight Wills, the winner to meet Dempsey. Tex Rickard has a cable from the Wild Bull announcing his acceptance of $240,000 offer to step into the ring and oppose the "Black Panther" on or before August 1. Tex has been very persistent in this matter and has raised the ante thousand by thousand until the Argentinian has found it impossible to refuse the bait.

Firpo was inclined to consort with strange gods in the United States of America, but after a period of deliberation he decided, wisely, in favor of Tex. Luis does not care at all for Rickard, but he knows that the golden rain falls in obedience to Rickard's wand, whereas other promoters take with scanty reverence. Thus, the metropolitan outdoor season takes an enhanced aspect.

It is on the cards that the much delayed Wills Madden bout will be fought in this city after all. Underneath the surface affairs, have been stewing pretty briskly of late and there is even talk that Simon Flattery will receive permission to stage the fight in his Queensboro arena, as originally proposed.

Or if it is not held in Long Island City it will be put somewhere in Greater New York, possibly right on Manhattan Island.

There are plenty of sporting men who testify that Wills once said he had rather meet a lot of men sooner than he would Madden because Bartley is such a gamster. While the West Side Irishman bleeds pretty freely, he does not appear to have nervous injuries to his brain. As a consequence, an opponent has to

DOPE FROM DUGOUT

By JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Just a year ago the New York Yankees and the New York Giants were riding the crest of the baseball wave, and the fans of other cities were growling about the "same old story" in the big leagues. The New York clubs are up at the top today, but they were last year. As a matter of fact, both clubs are about a week behind their 1923 records.

If the other clubs of both circuits have the fight in them, they pretend to have, the chance is open to overtake New York. It is true that both New York teams have a lot of double headers on their cards. If they can't win those doubleheaders they can't obtain any such abnormal lead as they had last year.

What happens between now and the next intersectional games may give a line on what to expect. If both New York clubs can prey on their eastern rivals and chew them up fine, they will be in good position to wallow the west. If the eastern clubs play any kind of baseball against them, the Gothamites will have to pitch in as if the old Nick were after them.

The Brooklyn club over which there is so much elation, oddly enough stood exactly as well a year ago as it does now.

The actual gains of this season in the National, have been made by Chicago and Cincinnati. The great loss is that of Pittsburgh. There is not so much difference on the part of other teams.

In the American League the great ground gainer has been Boston. St. Louis is next and Detroit a close third. Philadelphia has provided the big plunger. A year ago this time they were second place. Now they are last. The upside down team is Cleveland.

For straight-out adherence to form, Washington has them all liked. The Washington club is almost to a game where it was in 1923. It is as good a promise as it was this time last year, perhaps better. If the Senators could hit the ball ten points harder they would surely be in the first division.

The Cincinnati Nationals, having found themselves going into the campaign of the East with too many crimples and too little reserve strength, have wisely added power from the outside.

Harper has been traded for Walker of the Phillies, a move that was meant to add to the batting strength of the Reds, and Minneapolis has been induced to transfer Critz, a second baseman and Shorten, an outfielder.

Shorten already has had some Major League experience. He is not a hard batter but he is a mighty intelligent batter and he is a good outfielder. Critz is not the best second baseman in the American Association, nor is he the worst. He will give the Cincinnati team confidence, because there is a deep feeling that when he makes an error it is a very costly affair and the crowds have not always been kind to him.

But Roush was injured and the Reds were further handicapped by the loss of other injured players so that they have not squared off for a steady fight although they have been doing better than in other years.

The Reds cast covetous eyes in the direction of Indianapolis earlier in the season and the fact that they could not get help there, but were compelled to turn to Minneapolis, indicates what has long been suspected, that Brooklyn has first claim on Indianapolis, and that Indianapolis will not weaken its team, until assured it

PRaises COLLEGE GIRL OF AMERICA

English Educator at Berkeley Amazed at Independent Spirit Displayed

BERKELEY, June 2.—The American college woman's splendid independence is one of her remarkable traits, according to Mrs. Adams, wife of Professor John Adams, of the University of London, and present lecturer in education at the University of California. In comparing American and English college women Mrs. Adams says: "The English girl is more painstaking and thorough about her work, but as yet she has not gained that vital courage of independence which the American girl possesses."

The American girl is willing and unashamed to work for her education if necessary. She does this with a calm and dignity that is amazing. This is one thing the English girl could not do," Mrs. Adams added that though the American college women may work, she presents a better appearance than the student of any other country. "She is handsomely and appropriately dressed, and always appears well groomed."

In her social life the English college girl is much more regulated by chaperons than the American. The girls have a certain number of teas and dances under the supervision of the women. "The cocoa parties of Cambridge and Oxford women are as famous as your midnight feeds," stated Mrs. Adams. These parties are encouraged by the authorities, for, though there is gossip and fun, the meetings usually end up in the discussion of "world problems."

"English college women," said Mrs. Adams, "lead a much less luxurious life than the American." There are no steam-heated buildings. Each girl is given her daily ration of coal for her fireplace. In Oxford and Cambridge everything has been put on the standard of the girl without money. The wealthy girls use great care to make no show of their ample means. There are very few English girls who have their own cars at college, but it is the usual thing to own a bicycle and to use it often.

Exercise is more systematized in England than in America. In the opinion of Mrs. Adams, the American girl rushes about all ways, the problem is how to get her to rest. English women take their daily exercise regularly. In the afternoon many women may be seen rowing on the Oxford and Cambridge brooklets. Other favorite forms of exercise are walking, punting, golfing and bicycling. In England play and sport have been the heritage for centuries, so they do not hold as much excitement for the college women as her work does.

"Though the provincial colleges have offered opportunities to women for higher education, and even as far back as 1826 the University of London was founded for women as well as men, the idea of college education for women is relatively new. Co-education is also much less prevalent in England than here. The combined enrollment of women in both Oxford and Cambridge does not exceed 300. Until very lately the finishing schools of France and Switzerland were the favored institutions for English girls."

Cincinnati's determination to strengthen, and to do so as quickly as possible, is in line with the policy of the team, which is based on the theory that this is the golden year to defeat the Giants, if that club ever is to be ousted from the championship.

Between the loss of McManus and the falling off in batting by Sisler, the St. Louis Browns are not progressing as they were. The Browns are having their troubles with the Western clubs. There is yet to rise, a team in the West that looks stable enough to make an irresistible bill for the League leadership in the American.

WOMEN GOING TO CLEVELAND MEET

Estimated That 1,000 Ladies Will Gather at G. O. P. June Convention

NEW YORK, June 2.—One thousand women will attend the Cleveland convention, 350 to 400 of whom will be delegates and alternate, according to the estimate of Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upson, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee. Ninety-three full-fledged women delegates, with full voting powers, already had been listed at National Republican Headquarters when this estimate was made, and ten states had not yet sent in their reports. In addition, there will be about 250 women delegates.

The associate members of the Republican National Committee and members of the Women's National Executive Committee and other prominent women will also attend the convention. Among them will be Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Illinois; Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York. Women legislators are to have a prominent part in the convention. Mrs. Nettie M. Clapp, of Cleveland, is chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee for Cleveland, which is arranging for the entertainment of the women delegates and visitors.

A meeting of the National Republican Committee is scheduled for June 4, preceding the convention. Among the prominent women who will not be delegates, but will have an immense influence with the delegates, are Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Mrs. Bessie Parker Bruggemann, Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, Miss Betsey Edwards and Miss Marion Parkhurst.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the entertainment of the women. The auditorium in which the delegates will be seated is a new structure, housing 1,400 people. The seats are all comfortable, and the stage can be seen from every seat. There are no posts or pillars. Opening off the auditorium are a number of chambers for committee rooms. The assistant sergeants-at-arms will come from various states, and the ushers all will be from Cleveland. There will be women in both groups.

Plan Entertainment Steamers have been arranged to take the delegates on sails across Lake Erie. There will be special performances in two of the theatres, and residents of Cleveland are furnishing automobiles to take the visitors sightseeing.

Stanford Takes Third In Meet at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 2.—Yale won the intercollegiate track and field title Saturday with 27 points. Penn was second with 24. Other institutions finished as follows: Princeton 23, Penn State 21, University of Southern California 14, Johns Hopkins 13 1/2, Harvard 13, California 13, Boston College 12, Cornell 10 1/2, Dartmouth 8, Georgetown 7, Syracuse 5, M. I. T. 5, Colgate 4 1/2.

G. L. Hill, Penn., and S. G. Hartnutt, Leland Stanford, were the only double winners. Hill won the 100 and 200 yard dashes and Hartnutt the shot put and discus throw.

Two new records were created at this meet when W. A. Commons of Yale, leaped 24 feet and 6 1-16 inches in the broad jump and when Hartnutt tossed the shot 49 feet 5 7-8 inches. The failure of Kerr, the Stanford miler, to stand the pace and finish among the leaders ruined California's athletes' chances.

The order totaled 17,000 square feet and cost about $35,000. The sale was made through the F. W. Kurling construction company of Kansas City and was placed with the M. and J. Sloan company, of New York.

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Plans have been prepared for a $1,000,000 structure to house the new plant of the General Electric company here.

Says U.S. Women Have Advantage of English

LONDON, June 2.—American women have much better opportunities to carve a career for themselves than their English counterparts, in the opinion of Mr. McBERTY, prominent member of the engineering trade in this and now in London to represent American women at the International Conference of the Women's Engineering Society.

The reason for this is that the American husband is less selfish than the English husband, according to Mrs. McBERTY, who thinks that the English are mistaken in bringing their boys and girls up apart in different schools instead of letting them play and work together in their school years.

DODGERS WIN OUT

The Dodgers came from behind and defeated the Phillies in the ninth, 8 to 7. The victory brought the Robins to within three games of the Giants.

INVESTMENT NEWS

By GEORGE T. HUGHES
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright 1924.

The Glendale Evening News presents today the first of a series of articles by George T. Hughes on "Investments." The series will cover wide range of subjects and will be an invaluable guide to the man or woman looking for safe and sound advice as to the disposition of any available moneys. The articles will appear every day.

FIRST ARTICLE
There is no rule of thumb for investing. Every investment must be judged on its own merits and the rules or principles for judging it must fit individual requirements. No one set of rules is adequate to measure every investment. But there are a number of principles which will enable one to avoid bad investments and to enjoy the advantages that come from making good investments. These principles are the chest of tools with which investment bankers and successful investors work. There is no mystery about investing safely and profitably.

In these articles I shall try to hold up a mirror to the investment banking business, which is the business of making and selling investment securities, stocks and bonds. I shall try to show just what goes on, just what principles are followed, and why, thereby enabling the inexperienced to know the right kind of investments and to avoid the worthless. I shall not try to preach nor to tell entertaining tales of ingenious crooks and bucket shop operators. People grow weary of economic preachments. Tales of swindles give little information to help the uninformed avoid the next clever and novel fraud.

Through every investment banking house there is a steady procession of executives of every kind of business; public utilities, factories, mills, mines, hotels, retail and wholesale stores, timber and oil concerns, state and municipal officers. They seek long-time credit. Ninety per cent of business is done through credit or instruments of credit.

The commercial, or deposit bank, supply the short time credit. The investment bankers supply long-time credit or fixed capital. They examine carefully the integrity of the soundness of the enterprise. More often than not they reject. When they accept they underwrite a stock or bond issue. That means they buy the securities from the enterprise and sell them to their customers. It is that business procession, the rejecting and the making and selling of investment securities that I shall mirror in these articles, that he or she who reads may know how to invest safely and profitably.

(Mr. Hughes' second article will appear in The Glendale Evening News tomorrow.)

L. A. EXCHANGE

By Southland News Service

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—Trading on the Los Angeles stock exchange was afflicted with the usual post-holiday pall this morning, but the few sales that were completed were distributed well throughout the active lists.

Julian Petroleum, both preferred and common stock, was the most active of the oil issues today. The preferred stock opened well up at $25.75, advanced rapidly to $26.50 and $26.75. Julian common opened at $20, the highest point it has touched for weeks, but a reaction forced it down to $19.50.

Union Oil of California was steady at $123 and Union Associates at $53.75. Rice Ranch was firm at $1.93.

Los Angeles Investment stock was traded light at $3.85. In the mining list Telluride was steady at 16. United American was the heaviest trader, opening at .05 1/2, while Oatman United was firm at .04 1/2.

California was the only active bank stock. This opened at $280 but only a few shares changed hands. In the Industrials Good-year preferred was traded for $93. Edison common was the heaviest seller in the public utilities. The firm at $101. Edison 7 per cent was traded at $103.50.

DELAY IN PERMIT APPROVAL SOUGHT

Congressman Requests That People of California Express Sentiment

SACRAMENTO, June 2.—Congressman Baker has petitioned the Federal Power commission to withhold approval of applications for power development on the Klamath river until the people of California have had an opportunity to vote on an initiative measure in the November election, which would make the stream a fish reserve, according to advice from Washington, D. C.

The State Fish and Game commission is in the fight strongly opposing issuance of a permit to the Electric Metals company of San Francisco, which has made an application for permission to divert 3000 cubic feet of water per second at an expenditure of $8,000,000. The game commission declares this proposal would practically ruin the stream as a salmon preserve.

In remote periods clothes were cleaned by being rubbed or stamped upon, in water.

WANTS PEOPLE TO EAT MORE MUTTON

Unless Consumption of Meat Increases, Many Sheep Will Starve, Claim

SACRAMENTO, June 2.—Unless the consumption of mutton is materially increased, thousands of sheep now on the ranges will be a total loss, according to A. T. Spencer, president of the California Wool Growers' association, in an appeal issued to householders and others.

"We need the co-operation of the retail butchers and also of the general public," said Spencer. "Meat prices must be cut down so that everyone will buy meat. Butchers now are asking as much for mutton as ever. Wholesalers must do their utmost to assist in disposing of livestock. Unless there is general co-operation, thousands of sheep will starve to death this summer for lack of pasture."

Railroad shares were inactive throughout the session with the underdone fairly steady. Money conditions were easy. Call renewing and lending at 3 per cent. Domestic bonds were slightly irregular. Foreign government generally steady. Grains were irregular. Cotton jumped from $4 to $6 a bale, following the publication of an extremely bullish government cotton report.

Foreign exchanges were featured by a break in French francs through the 5-cent level, due to the unsettled political situation in France. Stock sales today $23,700 bonds $9,016,000.

San Mateo In Search For 'Sour' Cornetist

SAN MATEO, Cal., June 2.—The entire police force of this town is searching for a "sour" cornetist, following complaint made by Willis Polk, prominent California artist and architect, that the man was bothering his neighbors.

According to the artist, the man persisted in "bugling" long into the night. "The worst of it is, he can't play a lick," Polk complained to the police.

The coal resources of Italy are nearly exhausted.

BUSINESS WORLD

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Purveyors to the sweet tooth of the American people are engaged in one of the busiest seasons they have ever experienced.

They are introducing new symphonies in confections to please the palate just as a musical symphony appeals to the ear, only instead of utilizing the eight notes of the musical scale they utilize the primary flavors and tastes. Just as instrumental variations of tone, note and pitch are developed and as the artist produces scores of shades and tints from the primary colors, so the confectioners are producing every degree of bitterness, sweetness, sourness and saltiness to attract the $1,000,000,000 which will be spent for candy this year.

Formerly the manufacture of candy was largely a local enterprise in each community. Then some of the larger producers introduced what they call the "national" field, meeting the local manufacturer in his own market with the aid of advertising and quality production. This competition has now placed the smaller manufacturers on their mettle and they are preparing this summer to battle vigorously for possession of their own territories.

They are seeking to achieve this by developing products of sufficient novelty to increase incentive to buy on the part of the public. Profits at present are narrow, according to the majority of manufacturers. Costs of some raw materials have fallen and prices of candy have remained fairly stable, but the increased margin of profit which this would indicate has been swallowed up by additional overhead and labor expense, the makers claim. Within certain limits they say the slight advance or decrease in the prices of candy has little effect on the amount consumed. One vital aid to the confectionery business which has developed this year is the drop in the price of sugar.

The manufacturers expect to make well over 2,000,000,000 pounds of candy before December 31. They require about 8 per cent of all the sugar consumed in the United States. It is estimated that about 30 per cent of the sugar consumed is manufactured into some product, while the remaining 70 per cent goes into homes in the powdered or granulated form. At present sugar prices are advantageous for the buyer. Raw sugar is down to a low point, and many well-informed dealers predict that the Cuban crop will be in excess of 4,000,000 tons. The European output of beet sugar is expected to be well over a million tons larger than it was last year.

Plantings of sugar beets in the inter-mountain states and in Michigan and Ohio have been heavy, and a large crop is anticipated. The critical dry situation which has existed since mid April in northern Colorado has been relieved by soaking rains, assuring a good stand of beets in all that region. It is to be noted that beet sugar normally is quoted 40 of a cent lower than the cane product.

The sugar market in Louisiana is being marked at present by failure of the summer demand to develop and decline in prices of raw and refined products. The price of refined dropped 30 cents a hundred pounds in New Orleans this week. All these factors tend to indicate that the price of sugar, one of the chief constituents of candy, will remain fairly stable for some little time to come.

This, members of the National Confectioners' association feel, means that the 30,000 or more establishments devoted to the manufacture of candy at wholesale will be actively operated with approximately one hundred thousand workers on their payrolls. It is estimated that the combined wholesale and retail candy business furnishes employment to not less than 300,000 persons at present. The industry, however, is pointing well away from hand production. Increased consumption demanded quantity output and machinery to assist this has been developed until hand production has almost disappeared.

CHICAGO WHEAT
By International News Service
CHICAGO, June 2.—The grain market cracked in the last few hours today and all futures closed lower. Wheat was down 2 to 2 1/2 c. corn 1/2 to 3/4 c. and oats 1/4 to 3/8 c. Sympathy with lower cables and a decided drop at Winnipeg and reports of rain in wheat sections from which had come reports of damage to the growing crop from continued dry weather were responsible.

There was not much doing in provisions.

Savant Accepts Japs' Good-Will Tour Offer

HONOLULU, June 2.—Dr. K. C. Leebick, head of the department of history and political science at the University of Hawaii and former professor of history at the University of California, has been invited by the American-Japanese Relations Committee of Japan to tour the Orient this Summer, with the special object of discussing with leaders plans for increasing friendly relations between America and the Far East. This visit is the outcome of communications between residents of Honolulu and men prominent in American-Japanese affairs in Tokyo, Yokohama and elsewhere.

Bandits Free Envoys To Negotiate Ransom

PEKING, June 2.—Two members of the rescue party of missionaries who were captured while en route to Kweilin by Chinese bandits have been released by the Ywangs bandits to effect terms for the release of the two still held. The men released are H. G. Miller, American, and a British missionary named Jaffray. Ray Ray, an American, and a British missionary named Carne are still held. Nothing is known of the fate of ten American and ten British missionaries at Kweilin where fighting was in progress and two Americans were reported killed.

Captain Dies as Boat Blows Up, Is Belief

SEATTLE, June 2.—Walter Harris, captain and owner of the sixty-foot gas boat Georgia, plying between Port Orchard and the Bremerton navy yard, is missing at the former port and is believed dead from an explosion which completely wrecked his boat and caused slight damage to nearby buildings last night. The boat was berthed at a Port Orchard dock when the explosion rocked the town, blowing the boat to bits, damaging the pier and shattering windows in the main business street. Captain Harris was the only person aboard so far as is known.

MANY DELEGATES ATTEND CONCLAVE

Session Held In Pasadena
As Forerunner to Big
L. A. Convention

tending to awaken American citizens to a sense of their international privileges and obligations and to hasten the day of world peace. Wherefore, be it resolved that the California Federation of Women's clubs, in convention assembled, heartily reaffirm its stand on former resolutions, urging the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice and request the United States government to call an international conference to draw up a code of laws, which shall declare war a crime and outlaw the same; and, be it resolved further, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, Secretary of State, Chairman of Foreign Relations committee and the senators from California.

Urges Preparedness

It was Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long, president of the Ebell club, who made a plea that gained applause, when she asked that the women recognize the need for preparedness until the International Court had made war a crime and the United States was a part of the court.

Other resolutions adopted, were in brief: That the state industrial farm for women near Sonoma receive a sufficient appropriation to rebuild the structure that was burned, and for the more efficient carrying on of that work, and that such a bill be supported at the next session of the state legislature; that the federation oppose the Blanket Equality amendment giving equality to women with men in all matters as a menace to the protective measures now in effect in California; that a federal bill be enacted to limit or prohibit labor of youth under 18 years of age; that cigarette smoking by the young be deplored as injurious to the health of all and that the state law forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors be more rigidly enforced; that the program of Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. and Woodcraft Girls be encouraged and developed; that "America, the Beautiful," be made the official state federation song that Saturday half holidays for working people be indorsed; that the Mission Play as an integral part of California life and the Golden Scroll of John S. McGraw be encouraged and supported in every way possible; that the employment of children on public programs be discouraged; that, in co-operation with the National Safety commission, judges be urged to pass more drastic sentences against speebers and reckless drivers; that clubwomen of large the market for the wares made by disabled veterans; that an increased appropriation be made for airplane forest patrols to ward off forest and mountain fires; that the president be urged to send representatives to the World Opium Congress, soon to convene, and that the growth of poppies be limited to supply opium only for medicinal and scientific needs; that the Volstead act and Wright act be rigidly enforced, and that the federation go on record as definitely and absolutely opposed to the wet campaign being started in the state; and President Coolidge be commended on his stand against lavish preparation for war.

The last resolution was stated as "We give our hearty approval of the president's recent proposal to call another international conference to limit further the use of poison gas, submarines and war aircraft, and for the codification of international laws that shall diminish the possibility of war."

An interesting report given during the day was that of Mrs. L. P. Boyce of San Francisco, state chairman of press, who stated that during her brief term of committee work the state had donated the federation about 19,231 inches of space at a value of $57,520, and had printed 193 photographs.

Reflecting the growth of the California federation during the year was a report stating that during the year, fifty new clubs, with a membership of 3000, have joined the ranks of the federated clubs, bringing the total to 603 organizations in the state, with a membership of 70,000.

Intelligent drivers would have lured the crowd over the hill at 25 miles an hour, more, if traffic permitted. There would have been no jam on the bridge.

And there would be no need for motorcycle policemen if all drivers had the good judgment necessary to properly manipulate a motor car and see that it is in good working order.

The car without good brakes, the one without power, the one with worn tires; the driver without good eyesight or hearing, the one who does not think quickly, the one who is stubborn and unable to fathom what the other fellow is attempting to do in tight places, the one who points out objects to his passengers and slows up to see the sights, the goggle-eyed kid who has his mind and his arm where they should not be—

These are the real causes for motor crashes. And that's that.

COMMENT

That's All

Who Should Pay For It?
Heredity, Too Much Money
Cause Of Traffic Jams
If All Had Good Judgment

By Gil A. Cowan

Two news stories of unusual human interest developed over the week-end.

Nearest home was the fire which destroyed the Hope Development home at Del Rey and took the lives of more than a score of children.

In Chicago the sons of two millionaires confessed the murder of another rich man's son. It is strange, in its way, because both youths had everything they might desire, even brains.

But their mentalities had that diabolical streak which develops in so many people who do not keep occupied at something useful.

And it is a sad commentary to make that schools, particularly those institutions of higher learning where the sciences and letters are learned, turn out such people when they develop too fast.

It is impossible for immigrants to come from Europe, or elsewhere, amass fortunes, over-educate their children, give them advantages which they are not prepared through heredity to accept, and then not have such things happen as occurred in Chicago.

Both Leopold and Loeb would be far better off today if they were sons of street-sweepers, working in department stores.

Think of the catastrophe which overtook the little children housed in the Hope Development home at the beach. Foundlings, subnormal, undernourished girls who were being given a chance in life were the victims of fire which swept through the old three-story hotel building.

There were no fire escapes, it is said. There was no fire department in the community. There were only two caretakers for the two-score inmates of the institution.

That's how much the public cares for human life. We read of the two boys who killed another. "Hang them" is the cry.

Then we glance at the fire toll. No one to be hanged for that. Certainly, the nation who gave her life for the little ones did all in her power.

Certainly, the neighbor residents and the firemen, who arrived too late, did all they could. But the public and the judges who consigned the children to the fire-trap, the incompetents who permitted it to exist and the public that was blind in its carelessness—they are no better than the two singular types of slayers in Chicago.

Take the motorists, for example. Men, women and children are killed every day by the automobile sally forth on the roads and highways in the instruments of death and destruction, if you please, and it is every man for himself.

We talk of laws to protect the public. Speed limits are set. Other regulations are made. They all miss the mark.

Only yesterday afternoon the writer observed a motorcycle officer pacing cars over the Ivanhoe hill. Practically all of the drivers slowed down to the legal 20-mile limit. They were fearful of being arrested.

And then what happened? Traffic became jammed on the Glendale boulevard bridge. Two cars were forced to stop. Others soon were going less than 15 miles an hour, many in second gear.

Intelligent drivers would have lured the crowd over the hill at 25 miles an hour, more, if traffic permitted. There would have been no jam on the bridge.

And there would be no need for motorcycle policemen if all drivers had the good judgment necessary to properly manipulate a motor car and see that it is in good working order.

The car without good brakes, the one without power, the one with worn tires; the driver without good eyesight or hearing, the one who does not think quickly, the one who is stubborn and unable to fathom what the other fellow is attempting to do in tight places, the one who points out objects to his passengers and slows up to see the sights, the goggle-eyed kid who has his mind and his arm where they should not be—

These are the real causes for motor crashes. And that's that.

CHRISTIAN'S RACE IS SERMON TOPIC

Rev. L. J. Millikan Preaches
On Need for Courage
In Life's Battle

"The Christian's Race" was the subject of the morning sermon Sunday by Rev. L. J. Millikan, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church.

Using Hebrews 12:1-2 for his text he said in part:

"The religion of Jesus Christ brings more joy than anything else known to men or to angels. St. Paul, like our Lord, always placed his eyes on things above him seeking lessons in nature to more effectively preach the messages of Jesus Christ. Never has there been his equal in philosophy, science or oratory, neither was he ignorant of the rules of athletics of his day. He was truly a red-blooded man who had consecrated his every talent to the service of his fellowmen."

"By this giant mind we are admonished to enter the Christian race, and He tells how we may be winners. God also is Himself concerned in our attitude toward this race, constantly looking on, noticing our enthusiasm or else our lethargy. To win a race all our energy is required."

Racer's Example
"We as Christians can learn a lesson in courage and determination in Joe Boyer, who, the past week, won an auto race under almost discouraging circumstances, and whose victory under such odds astounded the whole world. With his own car disabled, he courageously jumped into another, and drove it to victory. Can we afford to be less determined to win, since the race we are running is of far greater importance."

"Doing our best we can well afford to leave results with God. We must make every precaution by throwing off every weight that will hinder us—such weights as hatred, malice, anger, bitterness, blasphemy, lying, etc. By discarding all such weights we lighten our lives with the love of God, bearing in mind that at the end of every successful race a crown of life awaits us, and will be placed on our heads by the nail-pierced hands of our Savior."

"When the One Great Scorer comes to write against my name, He writes not that I won or lost, but how I played the game."

At the close of the sermon the Communion was served.

are being sold in all of France." He spoke of his experience in France and the work which led to the founding of the school of Synchronism in Paris, an honor that he shared with Morgan Russell. Mr. Wright is an American, but has spent many years in France and has lectured in many of the principal cities of European countries. He came to California five years ago and expects to make this his permanent home.

Plan June Fiesta
At the close of the address, Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, president of the association, presided at a short business meeting. She called attention to the art exhibit at the Tuesday Afternoon club-house where the work of John H. Gilbert will be seen this month. Also the Western Art Exhibit at the Biltmore, which is of interest to all artists.

Plans which were formulated for a June Fiesta to be held under the auspices of the association are well under way and a meeting of the board and committees will be held tonight at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Ballagh, 202 West Doran street, when final details will be completed for the coming event. The date has been set for the evening of Friday, June 13.

Twenty-two Injured In Street Car Dash

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—Twenty-two persons were injured when a "K" line municipal street car dashed through Twin Peaks tunnel out of control and between church and Dolores streets telegraphed the rear end of an "L" car which was proceeding in the same direction.

The "K" car was reported to have gone out of control shortly after it entered the long tunnel and gained momentum as it dashed toward the city end of the tunnel. Four cars were loaded with office workers and professional men and women who live in the fashionable "West of Twin Peaks" district. The injured were rushed to Central Emergency hospital.

WEAR REAL ORCHID

LONDON, June 2.—A real flower, and only one, is worn by women dancers at the Savoy, Claridge's and other smart hotels. Usually this flower is an orchid.

Sea-hares, small, slug-like mollusks, were notorious among the ancients for their supposed venomous properties and were often used as ingredients of poisonous potions.

REVENUE RULING LIMITS LIQUORS

All Southland Druggists Are Affected by New Order
from Washington

Important changes in the Internal Revenue regulations affecting retail druggists and manufacturers who use alcohol in the manufacture of medicinal preparations, will be made effective at once, under instructions received from Washington by Collector Rex B. Goodell. Every druggist in Southern California is affected by the revision of the regulations.

Under the new rules permits giving the right to use alcohol in manufacturing medicinal preparations will remain in force so long as the supporting bond is in effect or until cancelled.

The minimum penal bond to be filed by permit holders is reduced from $1000 to $500. Where bonds are renewed a positive date of on or before July 1 is fixed.

Defines Rights

A clear definition is given of the rights of a retail druggist as to filling prescriptions for intoxicating liquors. Unless registered as a wholesaler, a retail druggist cannot make sales at wholesale. He may sell upon physicians' regular prescriptions on Form 1403. In cases of emergency a physician holding a permit may write a liquor prescription on his ordinary prescription blank, and the druggist may fill it, but the prescription must contain the date required on Form 1403 and a clear statement of the emergency.

Tincture of ginger, spirits of juniper and wine of beef are added to the list of preparations classed as unfit for beverage purposes. Twenty-two preparations are on this prohibited list.

Four new formulas for the medication of alcohol are put in force and the sale is limited to one pint.

Ten Day Limit

No druggist may fill a prescription within a period of ten days for more than one pint of liquor or more than one quart of vinous liquor or any liquor containing more than one half pint of alcohol. A corresponding responsibility rests with the druggist as well as the physician who knowingly prescribes liquor for a patient who does not require it.
